WASHINGTON, April 1 (AP). — ecretary of State Hull announced oday the United States had recogized Gen. Franco's Government of pain.

He told a press conference this peant formal recognition.

The United States followed the ad of Great Britain and France extending formal recognition to ranco as the legal as well as the ctual Spanish Government.

At Warm Springs, Ga., today resident Roosevelt signed a proclamation terminating the embargo export of arms to Spain. The roclamation officially recognized he end of the long civil war in pain. The action was taken under uthority of a joint resolution of ongress extending the arms emargo provisions of the Neutrality to the civil war.

This provides that "when in the udgment of the President the conitions described in this resolution ave ceased to exist, the provisions hereof shall thereupon cease to ist."

The embargo was proclaimed May 1937. Because the war was of uch "magnitude that export of rms ammunition or implements of ar from the United States to Spain ould threaten and endanger the eace of the United States."

In revoking the embargo the resident said in his judgment the tate of civil strife necessitating the rder had ceased to exist.

Another proclamation, by Hull, nnounced revocation of rules preribed on May 5, 1937, governing oliciting and receiving of conributions for use in Spain. The nnouncement stated specifically, owever, that offenses committed rior to the revocation were exepted.

Hull told reporters numerous roblems remained to be settled ith Spain. These included, he said, decision on American property ized during the war.

Hull said the State Department d not been informed whether the rgos Government would move to adrid.

MILES W. BROWN

Prisoner Taken From Jail and Shot to Death—Jury Recommended Mercy — He Murdered Employer.

PANAMA CITY, Fla., April 1 (AP).—Miles W. Brown, convicted last night of the first-degree murder of a former employer, Roy Van Kleeck, was shot to death early today after being taken from jail by a band of masked men.

Mercy had been recommended by the jury which convicted him of shooting Van Kleeck, making a life sentence mandatory.

Sheriff John Scott said Brown was taken from the jail about 3 a. m. by four or five masked men, who overpowered Jailer John Goodwin. Brown's bullet-pierced body was found beside a country road three hours later.

Quarrel Over Dismissal.

Van Kleeck's body was found in a bayou near here Jan. 16. Brown was arrested several days later in a Jacksonville hotel. Detectives said he had about $1300 in currency and the State charged it was taken from Van Kleeck.

Brown did not testify at the trial, but officers reported he admitted the killing, saying he fired in self-defense in an altercation over his dismissal from Van Kleeck's employment.

Jailer Goodwin said two of the masked men entered the front room of the jail and seized him before he was aware of their presence. He said one of them told him:

"The law didn't do justice, but we will. We don't want to hurt you."

Then they took off his trousers, tied him up and seized his keys.

They went to the upstairs cell where Brown was imprisoned and took him out. Goodwin said he heard no outcry from Brown.

Unable to Identify.

Sheriff Scott said he had been unable to identify them.

Brown's body, pajama-clad, was lying face down, he said. There were bullet holes in the head and chest.

Sentence was not passed by Judge E. C. Welch before court adjourned last night, but it was to have been a mere formality, the jury's verdict automatically carrying the life sentence. Without the recommendation for mercy the penalty would have been electrocution under Florida law.

DR. CLENDENING TO MOVE; IS 'MAD AT KANSAS CITY'

NEW ORLEANS, April 1 (AP).—Dr. Logan Clendening, who used an ax to stop temporarily a WPA project in his home town of Kansas City, Mo., because of its noise, said here yesterday, while attending the American College of Physicians convention, that he was "mad at Kansas City" and was going to move to Santa Barbara, Cal. His wife likes Santa Barbara.

Dr. Clendening called Kansas City the "rottenest borough in the world." He said he didn't object so much to the tat-a-tat-tat of the air drill he disabled near his Kansas City home as he did to the "political stink."

VANDALS DAMAGE BUSTS OF COMPOSERS IN PARK

Repairs to Cost $200; Four of Six Heads in Bandstand Group Mutilated.

Four of the six marble busts of composers which surround the bandstand in Tower Grove Park have been damaged by vandals and have now been covered to prevent further mutilation.

The noses have been knocked off the busts of Gounod and Verdi while the faces of Wagner and Beethoven have been chipped. Only Mozart and Rossini were not damaged.

Park Superintendent James Gurney said he thought boys had probably picked up loose rocks used for the paving of a walk around the bandstand and thrown them at the figures. Repairs will cost about $200, he said.

INCOME TAX RECEIPTS HERE OFF 1.5 PCT. FROM LAST YEAR

Receipts of Federal income taxes from the Eastern District of Missouri for the first quarter of 1939 were about 1½ per cent less than in the corresponding period last year, when payments aggregated about $10,600,000, it was said at the Federal Building today. The decrease amounted to about $160,000.

There were about 105,000 returns, by individuals and corporations, including many showing no taxable income, compared with about 80,000 returns last year. Detailed figures on collections and returns are not available.

Nearly all the returns and payments for the first quarter of this year were made in March, only about 200 returns having been filed in January and February. In nearly all cases, except for small taxes, payments included only a fourth of the tax, under the quarterly installment plant. The annual deadline for filing returns was March 15.

Hartford M. Edgar Adds Potion to Soft Drink, Swallows it as She Looks On.

Hartford M. Edgar, a carpetner, ended his life last night by drinking poison at his home, 4138A Manchester avenue. He was 43 years old.

His daughter, Miss Juanita Edgar, 5268A Delmar boulevard, told police her father called her on the telephone about 10:45 o'clock and asked her to come to his home, saying "if you want to see me alive come over here right away."

She said when she arrived he sent her out to buy a soft drink, which he poured into a bowl when she returned, then suddenly took a bottle from his coat pocket, added the poison and drank it. He was dead on arrival at City Hospital. Miss Edgar said she knew of no reason why her father should wish to end his life.

SUIT TO DISBAR ADAM H. JONES FILED IN COUNTY

LAWYER PREVIOUSLY SUSPENDED IN 1936

At Time State Bar Group Urged Leniency, on Friends' Plea He Would "Learn Something."

Suit to disbar Adam Henry Jones, one-time Prosecuting Attorney of St. Louis County, was filed in Circuit Court at Clayton today by the Bar Committee of the Thirteenth Judicial District.

The petition charges that Jones got $120 from a client to satisfy a judgment but converted it to his own use. Disbarment proceedings in 1936, in which Jones admitted failure to perform services for various clients for which he had accepted fees and costs totaling $192, led to his suspension from practice for six months.

Today's action was made returnable April 10 before Circuit Judge John A. Witthaus, who ordered the earlier suspension.

Jones was retained last May 3 by Otis Wooldridge, 5215 Maffitt avenue, and Wooldridge's brother, Earl, 4420 Greer avenue, to settle a $300 judgment pending against them in the St. Louis Peace Court of Justice Richard Fitzgibbons, the petition sets forth. The judgment was in favor of Mrs. John W. Kelly of 621 Westwood drive, injured Sept. 3, 1937, when an automobile driven by her husband was struck, at Twenty-third and Market streets, by Earl Wooldridge's machine, driven by his brother.

Changes in Petition.

The petition relates that Jones told the Wooldridges he would prepare papers indicating they were going to institute bankruptcy proceedings, and with them might force settlement at a reduction. Informing his clients that he had arranged the matter, the petition alleges, Jones obtained $120 from them but failed, despite their frequent demands, to effect the settlement or account for the money.

Jones' address was given as 4002 Oakwood avenue, Pine Lawn.

The Wooldridge brothers, a Post-Dispatch reporter was informed, were represented in the case before Justice of the Peace Fitzgibbons by another attorney, whom they dismissed to hire Jones because of dissatisfaction with the outcome in court.

Bar Sought Leniency.

Leniency was recommended in the proceedings of three years ago, when Jones, after entering a general denial — went before Judge Witthaus on the eve of trial and admitted all five counts of that petition. Ralph E. Murray of Kansas City, representing the State Bar Committee, told Judge Witthaus that Jones' friends believed he would "learn something" from suspension, and "if he returns to the practice, he will practice honorably."

"We will be the first to prosecute," the committee added, "if he ever transgresses again."

Jones was boosted into office in 1922 by the Clean Election League, when the county "machine" was swept under, for the first time in 25 years, by a voters' revolt provoked by a disorderly and corrupt primary. The "clean-up" league opposed his renomination, however, after a term in which he was indicted for failure to prosecute two liquor cases and agreement to dismiss a robbery case. The indictments against him were dismissed on a technicality. His last official act in the office—for which he has several times run in vain—was to dismiss charges against 65 persons in the primary frauds.

The sailor was identified as Michelli Formosa. He left Malta Oct. 3, 1938, and was wrecked on the rocky island of Sao Pedro last Sunday.

MILLIONS IN REICH MISTRUST HITLER, GERMAN DECLARES

"Instinctively Feel Naziism Is Not Good for Lasting Interests of Country."

PHILADELPHIA, April 1 (AP). —Dr. Ernst Wilhelm Meyer, former first secretary of the German Embassy, declared today "millions and millions of Germans instinctively feel that Hitlerism is not good for the lasting interests of their country.

"No splendor of any European hegemony can fool them," he said in an address before the American Academy of Political and Social Science.

"Hitlerism," he said, "can teach other countries how ot run trains on time, how to organize armies and storm troops, but it cannot develop, strengthen or defend in any country affected by its National Socialist hegemony the principles of religious freedom, of internal freedom, of tolerance, of law, of free science, of personal dignity or of anything else which represents the core of Christian and Western cibilization."

Dr. Meyer said international law, as a result of Hitler's "intervention" policy, was as "dead as a door nail."

Fascists Fear They May Get Into War Involving Their Interests Indirectly.

ROME, April 1 (AP).—Chancellor Hitler's Wilhelmshaven speech today tended to increase the average Italian's uneasiness over the international situation. The tone of his references to Britain and Poland gave new cause for anxiety lest the Rome-Berlin axis involve Italy in a war in which Italian interests would be involved only indirectly.

Responsible Fascists said, however, that there could be no authoritative comment until they had seen the text of Hitler's remarks.

In foreign circles it was said Hitler's indirect warning that Poland might "get burned" could not help disturb Italians in view of Italy's friendly relations with Warsaw.

HITLER REPORTED TO HAVE 'NAVAL BASE' ON PERU'S COAST

Pan-American Committee Officer Says German Planes Dominate Brazil and Other Countries.

PHILADELPHIA, April 1. (AP). —Dr. David Efron, executive secretary of the Committee for Pan-American Democracy, told the American Academy of Political and Social Science yesterday Reichsfuehrer Hitler has established a "naval base" on the coast of Peru and that German planes dominate Brazil and other South American countries.

The Rome-Berlin axis already has planned "eventual conquest of sections of Latin America," he asserted. Dr. Efron displayed four maps, on which parts of Brazil, Argentina and Uruguay were classified as "Antarctica Germanica." The maps, he said, were being circulated in South America.

"In Brazil," he continued, "are 39 landing fields controlled by Syndicate Condor, an air service subsidiary of the German Lufthansa." He said Italy has a factory in Peru for assembling bombing planes and contended Italians control 50 per cent of Peruvian banking.

STOCK MARKET RALLIES, SOME OF LOSSES REGAINED

NEW YORK, April 1 (AP).—The stock market closed a tense week on a rallying note today and recovered some of the wide losses in the preceding session.

Gains ranging to more than $2 predominated in leading shares after prices, in an unusually busy week-end session, had swung up and down nervously. Aiding the rally, it appeared, were rumors in international banking circles the British and French had promised Mussolini concessions in return for an agreement not to press Italy's claims now.

POLAND ASKS FOR AMPLIFIED PLEDGE

Ambassador Raises Question After Pro-Government Paper Interprets Chamberlain's Pledge.

LONDON, April 1 (AP).—Chancellor Hitler's threat to denounce the Anglo-German Naval Treaty was greeted today with smiles in British naval quarters, where experts expressed confidence Britain could maintain her three-to-one advantage over the German Navy no matter what Hitler did.

The British Foreign Office already had placed on record its view that the treaty could not be denounced legally.

Admiral of the Fleet Sir Ronald Keyes, retired naval officer and member of the House of Commons, gave some idea of the official view when he said in Commons 10 days ago:

"I would shed no tears if the Anglo-German naval agreement were denounced. I do not think it is worth the paper it is written on."

Geoffrey Shakespeare, Undersecretary of the Admiralty, also recently declared that if Germany did end the treaty Britain would be released from its obligation under it to scrap five battleships of the Royal Sovereign class.

Poland Makes Inquiry.

Poland was understood today to have asked for a clarification of Prime Minister Chamberlain's pledge of military assistance against aggression following a statement in the London times that the promise "does not bind Great Britain to defend every inch of the present frontiers of Poland."

Count Raczynski, Polish Ambassador, spent an hour at the Foreign Office.

He was understood to have asked whether Chamberlain's statement yesterday really was an unconditional pledge or merely an invitation for Poland to make some arrangement with Germany over the Free City of Danzig and Pomorze, the Polish corridor.

Official Statement Issued.

Shortly after the envoy's visit an official British statement was issued expressing "surprise . . . that attempts should have been made in London to minimize the Prime Minister's statement in the House of Commons yesterday."

It asserted that Chamberlain's announcement "is regarded (in official circles) as of outstanding importance, the meaning of which is perfectly clear and categorical."

With an implied hint to Germany, the statement continued:

"No doubt is felt in official quarters that in present conditions the Polish government will wish to keep His Majesty's government fully informed, though the latter do not seek in any way to influence the Polish government in the conduct of their relations with the German government."

British officials emphasized th in their private view, Germa tion against either Dan Pomorze, if resisted by a threat to independe draw Britain and Fr tion.

MUSSOLINI SAYS SOMEONE HAS TO PROVIDE SPACE FOR ITALIANS TO LIVE

NAPLES, Italy, April 1 (AP).

PREMIER Mussolini told a crowd of peasants near Capua today that since they lacked enough space for their families "somebody will have to provide it."

He spoke at the dedication of a big land reclamation project but his hearers shouted "Tunisia" and "expansion."

He said the reclaimed land eventually would have farmhouses "adorned with many children for whom the space is insufficient and somebody will have to provide it."

Earlier in the day Mussolini laid the cornerstone of a new airplane factory at Pomigliano d'Arco, 15 miles east of Naples.

FRANCE REPORTS HEADWAY WITH STOP-HITLER BLOC

Cabinet Informed of Definite Progress in Efforts for General Mutual Assistance Pact.

PARIS, April 1 (AP). — Sources close to the government said today after a meeting of the cabinet that a general mutual assistance pact among the anti-aggression powers of western and eastern Europe was in process of formation.

Prime Minister Chamberlain's pledge of assistance to Poland yesterday was made with full French support, it was said, and was designed to offset any surprise aggression while the mutual assistance pact is being worked out.

The cabinet, meeting with President Lebrun, went over the situation.

It was learned that ministers agreed that negotiations in Warsaw, Bucharest and other interested capitals should proceed at the fastest possible pace.

To Protest to Tokyo.

The cabinet approved Foreign Minister Bonnet's suggestion that France make an immediate protest to Tokyo against Japan's announcement yesterday that she had assumed jurisdiction over the Spratly Islands, in the South China Sea.

Sovereignty of the Islands, equidistant from the Philippines, French Indo-China and British North Borneo, has been in dispute between France and Japan for some time. French said Japan had refused a previous French offer to arbitrate the matter.

The Cabinet approved several decrees, including one to tighten police control over foreigners in France and one to increase France's stock of airplane fuel.

Approval also was given to a plan to elevate the French legation in Bucharest to the rank of embassy.

Both President Lebrun and Premier Daladier are scheduled to speak at Montelimar, in Southeastern France, tomorrow, at ceremonies dedicating a statue in memory of President Loubet.

BRITISH-RUSSIAN ACCORD RIDICULED

Fuehrer Declares If Any Nation Wants to Measure Strength With Rome-Berlin Axis "We Are Ready."

WILHELMSHAVEN, Germany, April 1 (AP).—Chancellor Hitler replied today to Anglo-French pledges of military aid to Poland by delivering a threat from this North Sea naval base to denounce the 1935 pact which pledged him to maintain his navy in a state of permanent inferiority to Great Britain's.

The Fuehrer's challenge to Britain was declaimed to a crowd of 50,000 cheering followers a few hours after he had launched the Admiral von Tirpitz, second of the 35,000-ton battleships he is adding to his fleet.

He spoke for 62 minutes, beginning at 5:44 p. m. (10:44 a. m. St. Louis time).

Poland he warned, without naming it, thus:

"He who is willing to pull chestnuts out of the fire for others must expect to get burned."

He denounced the "devilish plan of encircling and attacking us;" declared "no Power in the world can ever again force us to our knees;" and bitterly derided Britain and France and democracie generally.

His Threats Indefinite.

But he made no threats more definite than this passage on the 1935 Anglo-German naval treaty:

"I once concluded a naval agreement with Britain. I was animated by the fervent desire that we might never again have a war with England.

"If, however, that wish does n exist on the other side, then practical preconditions for concl ing such a treaty have vanish

POLAND ASSURED, CALMLY AWAITING NAZIS' NEXT MOVE

WARSAW IN TOUCH WITH LONDON, PARIS

WARSAW, April 1 (AP).—Poland, assured by Prime Minister Chamberlain yesterday of French-British military assistance in the event of German attack, calmly awaited Chancellor Hitler's speech today as the key to the next Nazi move.

Poles generally expressed belief that "nothing will happen now," but the Government continued preparations for a possible war.

Poland was reliably reported already exchanging military information with Britain and France. These consultations were said to be intended to co-ordinate land, sea and air forces of the three nations. There was a possibility British and French warships might be sent to Gdynia, the Baltic port Poland has constructed at the outlet of the Polish corridor.

It also was reported that a defensive alliance between Poland and Lithuania, which ceded Memel to Germany, had been under discussion and now was being hastened to a conclusion.

A movement to concentrate all shades of opinion behind the Government brought Gen. Joseph Haller from retirement to a place on the Defense Loan Committee.

Haller commanded Polish forces in France, units made up mostly of Poles from the United States. Long openly out of sympathy with the Government, Haller conferred with President Moscicki yesterday. His return to prominence was considered highly symbolic at a time when the Government fears Germany may attempt to gobble up the Polish corridor and shut the nation off from the sea. It was Haller who commanded troops which opened the corridor for Poland 20 years ago.

Sources close to the Government said Poland still was seeking an understanding with Germany on the Danzig question.

Danzig dispatches Saturday said Polish troops estimated by Germans to number more than 10,000 had taken positions at Gdynia.

Polish officials declined to comment.

There also were unconfirmed Danzig reports of German troop concentrations in East Prussia and along the western frontier of the Polish corridor. German spokesmen in Berlin today did not deny that East Prussia came near to being an armed camp, but said that the garrison there always had been the strongest in Germany.

Torch Singer Married

LIBBY HOLMAN

NEW YORK, April 1 (AP).—Libby Holman, "blues" singer, was honeymooning in the country today with her second husband, Ralph Holmes, 23 years old, actor and son of Taylor Holmes, veteran character actor.

Mrs. Holmes, widow of Smith Reynolds, young North Carolina tobacco fortune heir, and mother of a 6-year-old boy who is heir to $7,000,000, married Holmes Monday in the vicinity of Washington.

Holmes, a brother of Phillips Holmes, movie actor, went to Washington to meet her Monday as she came up from Florida, where she sang during the winter season in a Coral Gables night club. A minister performed the ceremony.

Seven years ago young Reynolds died at Winston-Salem of a pistol bullet wound. A murder charge against his widow was dropped for lack of evidence before she went to trial.

exist," but said "any attempt at world domination would have to be resisted in this country, along with others, as it always has been in the past."

General relief was apparent both here and in the Balkans and other countries as a result of Chamberlain's declaration to Parliament yesterday that Britain and France would fight at once beside Poland if Poland were attacked.

Chamberlain, after a strenuous week, went to Chequers for a rest before Foreign Minister Col. Joseph Beck of Poland arrives Monday to work out details of the alliance and to discuss the possibility of building it into a more inclusive halt-Hitler bloc.

Rumania and Yugoslavia.

There was a definite feeling in British political circles that Rumania would be the next country to be brought into the "Halt Hitler" alliance. This feeling was reported also in Paris.

Although Belgrade official quarters denied that there were any negotiations being carried on with Britain, it was expected in many quarters that Yugoslavia would seek to join the anti-German bloc.

There were reliable reports from Warsaw that the British, French and Polish general staffs were working out a scheme of co-ordination for the armies and air forces for use in the event of attack on Poland.

In London, morning papers welcomed Chamberlain's announcement with the exception of the independent Daily Express which regretted:

"That a guarantee should be given that involves Britain in the concerns of Eastern Europe, that it be given without seeking and obtaining the approval of the Dominions and their concurrence in obligations."

Statement Called Sketchy.

The Daily Mail, Conservative, commented that "the whole situation of policy deserves a far greater degree of clarification than was offered in the House of Commons." The paper said the statement was "sketchy, and of necessity," as it was only an interim offer, concluding that "Mr. Chamberlain—rather like the legendary Miss Otis—regrets he was unable to elaborate today. And today was Friday (the start of the English week end)."

MAN BEATEN TO DEATH IS SAID TO BE BAKER CHOCOLATE HEIR

Body at Pittsburgh Is That of L. M. Baker, Brother in Virginia Is Advised.

PITTSBURGH, April 1 (AP).—A man identified by morgue records as Louis Marshall Baker, 47 years old, lay dead today from a beating which he had told detectives was administered by an assailant whom he refused to identify before his death.

J. S. Aldisert, Deputy Coroner, termed the case murder and said an inquest would be held.

He asserted the body had been claimed by relatives at Winchester, Va. At Winchester, W. A. Baker, City Treasurer, said he was advised the man killed was his brother, Lewis Marshall Baker, who was a son of the late W. H. Baker, president of the former W. H. Baker Chocolate Co. of Winchester.

Baker died in a hospital yesterday. The Coroner's office said an examination showed he had been kicked in the stomach and died of peritonitis.

Police said Baker had declined to give information about himself which might have shown his identity. He said Baker had been attacked in his room at the Y. M. C. A. by a man Baker had met in a saloon.

Eugene Weidmann and Another Member of Murder-for-Profit Ring Convicted by Jury.

VERSAILLES, France, April 1 (AP).—Eugene Weidmann and Roger Million, members of a murder-for-profit ring whose victims included Jean de Koven, Brooklyn dancer, were sentenced to death on the guillotine last night.

Jean Blanc, convicted of supplying money for the ring which Weidmann headed, was sentenced to 20 months' imprisonment, and Collette Tricot, 27-year-old woman charged with receiving the ring's stolen goods, was acquitted.

Weidmann, a former German convict, confessed six killings, including that of Miss de Koven, during the operations of the ring in Paris and its suburbs in 1937.

The sentences were pronounced after the convictions were returned by a jury following a trial of several days.

Weidmann refused to sign an appeal petition today saying, "It would be a useless formality." Million signed a petition.

The jury ruled first in the de Koven case, finding Weidmann guilty of murder, but ruling the crime was not premeditated.

It found "extenuating circumstances" in Weidmann's murders of Fritz Frommer, a member of the gang, and Raymond Lesobre, a real estate agent and neighbor of Weidmann, but it held he had premeditated the killings of Joseph Couffy, taxicab driver, Jannie Keller, a nursemaid, and Roger Leblond, theatrical promoter.

Million was convicted of participating in the murders of Mme. Keller and Leblond.

All Weidmann's victims were lured to Weidmann's brown-stucco, three-room villa La Voulzie, in the isolated suburb, Celle-Saint Cloud, just west of Paris. There they were robbed and killed.

Miss de Koven, who was 22 years old, was taken to the villa July 23, strangled to death and then buried beneath the porch. Weidmann robbed her of $500 in travelers' checks and 5000 francs (about $135) in cash.

Shortly after the sentences were handed down the three men were taken back into the court room for judgment on civil damage suits brought by families of the victims.

Lawyers representing four of the families asked for only the traditional one franc ($.026) damages, but those for the de Dovens asked for a total of 200,000 francs ($5200).

The court decided that Weidmann, Million and Blanc should pay a total of 100,000 francs ($2600) to the father and mother of the American dancer and 20,000 francs ($520) to her brother, Henri de Koven. Lawyers said there was little chance that any money would be paid.

Weidmann showed no emotion when the sentence was imposed. A few minutes later he smiled wanly at his attorney.

Hitler Threatens to Drop Treaty

but one fault—it knew the devilish plan of encircling and attacking us, yet it lacked the power or will to ward it off. It permitted things to advance to a catastrophe.

"No power in the world can ever again force us to our knees."

Hitler heaped derision on derision on Britain, France and the democracies generally, but made no positive statements about his intentions.

The main provision of the naval treaty to which Hitler referred was limitation of Germany's naval tonnage, with some exceptions, to 35 per cent of Britain's as "a permanent relationship." Germany recently announced it would take advantage of an exception that permitted it to build up to parity with Britain in submarines.

Greatest Breach of Faith.

Hitler drew an eloquent picture of what all was promised Germany as an inducement to down arms in United States President Woodrow Wilson's "Fourteen Points" and then exclaimed:

"There began a breach of faith such as history had never known!"

Prolonged cries of "Pfui!" resounded across the City Hall Square.

The Fuehrer explained that when he came to power he was determined both to solidify the country and to free it from the Versailles treaty.

"I am not here and the German people were not created to obey laws which appealed to France and Britain but which deny us our right to exist so I tore up the Versailles treaty."

Turning to the Rome-Berlin axis, Hitler asserted:

"If any nation wants to measure its strength with ours in any other way than a peaceful one we are ready for that also.

"As we think so do also our friends, especially the state with which we shall march now and in all the future," Hitler continued.

"The axis is a most natural instrument. It is a political combination corresponding to common sense, justice and idealism."

Thrust at Chamberlain.

Derisively he said, "I congratulate the gentleman (meaning Chamberlain) if he says there is no ideological difference between England and Soviet Russia."

Hitler paid a glowing tribute to Gen. Franco's Nationalist Spain.

"I can proudly say now that many German youths did their duty there and they helped as volunteers to break a tyranny."

Sarcastically he added, "we are happy to notice how quickly an ideological change came in certain other quarters which evidently thought they could at least further their economic business if not their ideology."

Hitler expressed the conviction that the ultimate peace of the world was assured because he said, "I believe the world will rid itself of the Jewish Bolshevik danger."

As for Germany, he declared "we are perhaps not beloved but we are certainly respected."

"If a certain statesman says we have no right to do this or that I counter: What right has England just to give one the example to shoot down Arabs who defend their country.

"If a British statesman demands that we talk over with him every problem affecting our German space for existence (Lebensraum) I may demand that the British talk over every problem with us.

"True: the English will say we have no business in Palestine. I answer we don't want anything in Palestine but Britain has just as little right to interfere in our German 'Lebensraum.'"

Behind Bullet-Proof Glass.

All Wilhelmshaven and neighboring cities turned out to hear the Fuehrer. It was a Saturday afternoon. Factories and public offices were closed.

He stood behind a bullet-proof glass arrangement like a bank teller's window which some said was to prevent any cold breeze from striking his chest.

The huge square was lined on all sides by Nazi swastikas banners and flags.

Hitler spoke rapidly, almost extemporaneously, using only notes.

Before speaking, he entered the City Hall to accept the honorary citizenship of Wilhelmshaven.

From the City Hall square he went directly to the Strength Through Joy Ship Robert Ley to take part in its maiden voyage to Helgoland.

The ship is named for the leader of the Nazi Labor Front and head of the strength through joy organization.

Hitler began his address at 5:44 p. m. (10:44 a. m. St. Louis time).

"German fellow citizens:

"He who will have the deepest impression of the decay and the resurrection of Germany most vividly must come and see the development of a city like Wilhelmshaven."

"Wilhelmshaven, reverberating today from life and activity, was a short time ago a dead spot nearly without means of existence and without prospects of a future."

(At this point the broadcast was cut off.)

The Fuehrer had left the German battleship Scharnhorst at 5 p. m. (10 a. m. St. Louis time) and gone to City Hall where the mayor handed him an honorary citizenship in the city.

He drove along streets crowded with cheering Wilhelmshaven population and guests from all parts of Greater Germany.

"Technical Reasons."

The broadcast of the speech was cut off because of German fears of a rebroadcast to Germany. The broadcast was interrupted two minutes after Hitler began speaking.

Broadcasting officials in Berlin said "technical reasons" were responsible.

An official publication in Berlin said whoever repeats as news information from foreign stations will be punished with up to two years in prison, providing the items are injurious to the welfare of the Reich, the reputation of the Reich Government or the Nazi party or any of its associated organizations. If the news is published the punishment is from three months to five years in prison.

If the radio listener believes what was repeated was true, but was in a position to obtain a denial from authorized officials, he will be punished for negligence under the law for protection of the State.

35,000-ton Battleship Launched; Shouts of 'Sieg Heil.'

Germany's new 35,000-ton battleship the Admiral von Tirpitz, was launched this morning in the presence of Chancellor Hitler amid thunderous shouts of "Sieg Heil" from thousands of Nazis.

Hitler made Admiral Erich Raeder, commander-in-chief of Germany's expanding fleet, with the title of Grand Admiral—Germany's first since the World War.

The battleship slid into the Jadebusen estuary of the North Sea at 11:30 a. m. (4:30 a. m. St. Louis time). It bore the name of the man who never spoke of the British except as "that old pirate nation" and who was the father of unrestricted submarine warfare in the World War.

Hitler looked on, his hand raised in the Nazi salute. He appeared pale, tense and somewhat preoccupied.

Admiral von Tirpitz's daughter, wife of the former ambassador to Rome, Ulrich von Hassell, seemed deeply moved as she broke the traditional bottle of champagne.

She said: "On the orders of the Fuehrer and supreme commander of the armed forces, I christen thee Tirpitz."

Von Trotha Speaks.

Previously Admiral Adolf von Trotha, whose name is associated with the Battle of Jutland, said: "This messenger of peace must also be able in the event of danger to break any resistance aimed at a nation which is entitled to equal right and equal respect among the peoples of the world.

"This ship is to bear the testimony to unity of our people on oceans of the world. It is to keep alive the spirit of a man whose name it is to bear—Admiral von Tirpitz."

Admiral von Trotha then reviewed Von Tirpitz's life, especially his struggles with the Reichstag for a navy that could command world esteem.

"His guiding thought was that a free people can secure and maintain peace only by power," Von Trotha said. "His whole life was one confession of faith in the idea of German sea and world power."

Hitler's Arrival.

Hitler came from Berlin by special train. As he stepped upon the railway platform the battleship Scharnhorst and the flagship Admiral Graf Spee fired 21 shots in salute.

He was greeted ceremoniously by dignitaries of the navy, army, air force and the city of Wilhelmshaven, and then reviewed an honor company of marines. The day was clear and bright.

From early morning, streets and wharves were jammed with people. The Nazi Strength Through Joy organization alone brought 6500 persons by special trains.

Official guests included Admiral-General Raeder; Colonel-General Walter von Brauchitsch of the air force and Colonel-General Erhard Milch, all district leaders of the Nazi party, governors of the provinces and top-leaders of the Storm Troops and the Elite Guards, the labor service. Seventy retired high naval officers, many of them with decorations from the World War, also were here.

The Scharnhorst, the Admiral Graf Spee, the Admiral Scheer and Deutschland, the Nuernberg, one destroyer flotilla and a number of torpedo boats, submarines and training ships.

EL PASO, Tex., April 1 (AP).—Four persons were being sought by Juarez (Mexico) police last night for questioning in the murder of Mrs. Weston G. Frome and her daughter, Nancy, on the West Texas desert a year ago.

The investigation widened after questioning of a Juarez saloon employe. Among those sought is a woman. Others are an American man, who danced with the California tourists the night before they left El Paso; a Juarez cabaret waiter, and an El Paso hotel employe.

The saloon worker was questioned on a tip that he had overheard a conversation which might lead to the Fromes' missing baggage, considered one of the most important clews in the case.

AUTO WORKERS' UNION TAKES UP PLAN FOR FEWER OFFICERS

CLEVELAND, April 1 (AP). — Heated debate was expected today when the convention of the CIO United Automobile Workers takes up a proposal to reduce the number of union vice-presidents from five to one. A prospect of prolonged discussion was foreseen in a decision to conduct a special session tonight.

The Constitutional Committee was scheduled to report yesterday. Charges were made on the floor that committeemen delayed the report to solicit support for the proposal through caucuses. Vice-President Richard T. Frankensteen assailed the caucuses as detrimental to the union, asserting they would "make everyone think Homer Martin was right." Martin, president until the union split into two factions, now heads an unaffiliated union. He was expelled by the CIO wing.

The convention adopted a resolution favoring organization of WPA workers into an industrial union affiliated with the CIO.

Expects Him to Try to Present Powers With Fait Accompli Before They Can Act.

MOSCOW, April 1 (AP).—Soviet Russian newspapers reported the British-French pledge to Poland today but refrained from editorial comment. Official quarters also were silent.

The London correspondent of the official newspaper Izvestia, however, said some circles there were comparing Prime Minister Chamberlain's statement with his declaration a year ago on Czechoslovakia and "are comparing the present situation with the situation preceding (Viscount) Runciman's journey to Prague." Runciman went to Prague as unofficial negotiator before the September crisis which led to the partition of Czecho-Slovakia.

Izvestia's Paris correspondent reported: "There are reasons to expect that in the interim before (Polish Foreign Minister) Joseph Beck's arrival in London (Monday), Chancellor Hitler will try to confront Europe with a new fait accompli—this at the expense of Poland."

25 Persons Including Child's Mother, Sister and Grandfather, Are Rescued.

Playing in front of his home last night, Joseph Soldi, seeing smoke coming from one of the buildings, made the sound which attracted his mother on the third floor.

Twenty-five persons including Joseph's mother, an 8-year-old sister and his paternal grandfather were led or carried to safety. In her haste to leave the apartment, Mrs. Soldi slammed the door and imprisoned a dog which was her son's pet. The dog was suffocated.

STOCKTON, Cal., April 1 (AP). —A Superior Court jury awarded $20,500 damages to George Emde and Lois Marshall, operators of the Happyholme Dairy at Lodi, yesterday in their suit against the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, the local teamsters' union, the San Joaquin Central Labor Council, the Stockton Labor Journal and officers of the labor groups, in connection with an article in the Labor Journal.

The dairy operators said the article caused customers to discriminate against their products, endangering the business.

Union attorneys argued that the article was solely an announcement of a boycott placed against Happyholme products as the result of its alleged breach of contract with the teamsters.

Neither of the youths was armed nor did they have any of the loot. They told Sheriff Westfall they took refuge in the hole after being forced out of an automobile by two Negroes near the camp. They admitted, the Sheriff said, driving from Chicago in an automobile found abandoned near the camp.

The brothers were arraigned last night before a Justice of the Peace and bound over on murder charges to the Carroll County grand jury, scheduled to convene in June.

La Master was 36 years old and a First Lieutenant in the Field Artillery Reserve on CCC duty. He was a resident of Carterville, Ill., had resided previously at West Frankfort and had attended high school at Herrin.

Capt. Frank Hughes of the camp said John Collins had been discharged dishonorably from the CCC unit about three months ago.

The sanitarium was 1500 feet from a fire hydrant, the distance delaying the firemen. It was a half hour after the blaze was reported before they could throw water on the 30-room building.

Dr. Byrd's son estimated the loss, including furnishings and supplies, at between $50,000 and $75,000. The cause of the blaze was not determined.

TWO PICKETING NON-UNIONIST'S HOME ARRESTED

TRYING TO PERSUADE OCCUPANTS TO JOIN

Detective Sergeant Tells Union Men That Police Intend 'to Use Tactics' Against Practice.

Police this afternoon arrested two pickets who were carrying signs in front of the home of a non-union worker in an effort to force him to join their union.

Picketing of homes, which made its appearance here Feb. 10, was resumed today by the CIO United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America. The union announced that substitute pickets would take the places of those arrested and the program would continue.

Since this type of persuasion began here the homes of 26 workers have been pickeied. Those today were the residences of Fred W. ...yer, 2623 Virginia avenue; Miss Pearl Napper, 4312 DeTonty street; Miss Irma Wilson, 4129 Evans avenue; Jesse Hill, 1712 South Thirteenth street; Fred Hausenkemper, 3400 Ivanhoe avenue, and Clayton Brown, 705 Rutger street, non-union employes of the Century Electric Co., and Anthony Wotawa, 3209 Plymouth avenue; Miss Bessie Newell, 1315 Evergreen avenue, and Mrs. Edith Mathews, 1577 Belle avenue, who work for the Wagner Electric Corporation, union leaders announced. The pickets walk in pairs, carrying signs proclaiming the individual, whose home is being picketed, as unfair to the union.

"Man's Home Is His Castle."

The two pickets arrested were walking in front of Brown's home when Detective Sergeant Herman Rennekamp and Detectives Lyman Price and William Dunman arrived on the scene. The pickets, Roy Garrett, 2008 Franklin avenue, and Oliver Green, 2849A Wisconsin avenue, were taken to police headquarters. Rennekamp told them that police intended "to use tactics" against home picketing. "You can picket factories all you want, but a man's home is his castle," Rennekamp declared. He said the arrests followed a complaint against the picketing.

Henry Fiering, secretary of United Electrical Workers' Local 1108, told a Post-Dispatch reporter the strike was brought to St. Louis by James J. Matles of New York, organizational director of the union, who spoke at a meeting here ...t Jan. 8 and told of the success ...home picketing in Eastern cities. ...tles encouraged a trial of the ...actice here.

Used in Europe Before War.

Fiering said home picketing was used in Germany and England before the World War and appeared in New York about seven years ago, but was not used extensively in this country until last year.

Last Saturday the CIO Gas and By-Products Coke and Chemical Workers' Union picketed the homes of four non-union employes. The Steel Workers' Organizing Committee, one of the more powerful CIO unions, and the United Coffee, Tea & Spice Workers also expect to adopt home picketing, it was learned.

The only American Federation of Labor Union to picket St. Louis homes so far was Casket Workers' Local 187, now on strike. Joseph ...by, an international representative of the Upholsterers' Union, in which the casket workers are affiliated, said his organization did not intend to continue this type of persuasion generally.

CIO leaders said home picketing has resulted in "quite a few" applications for union membership from non-union workers. The principal purpose of the picketing, the CIO men said, was to advise the neighbors of a non-union worker that he was not co-operating in the union's effort to obtain better wages and conditions for wage-earners.

Circulars for Passersby.

Circulars handed out to passers-by by the pickets contain the name and address of the non-union worker, his place of employment, the percentage of union employes of the particular plant and the period during which the individual has per-sisted in his refusal to join the union. Neighbors are requested to urge the non-union worker urging him to become a union member and help make St. Louis a better place to live in."

Meyer's home was picketed be-..., on March 11, when Fiering and ...e other pickets were arrested ...re.

Assistant Prosecuting Attorney ...L. Mushlin told the Post-Dispatch that no warrants were issued because the evidence did not support a charge of illegal assembly. Mushlin explained that the person picketed could seek an injunction to stop the practice.

Rennekamp told them that police intended "to use tactics" against home picketing. "You can picket factories all you want, but a man's home is his castle," Rennekamp declared. He said the arrests followed a complaint against the picketing.

Henry Fiering, secretary of United Electrical Workers' Local 1108, told a Post-Dispatch reporter the union was brought to St. Louis by James J. Matles of New York, organizational director of the union. He spoke at a meeting here on Jan. 8 and told of the success of home picketing in Eastern cities. He encouraged a trial of the practice here.

Used in Europe Before War.

Fiering said home picketing was used in Germany and England before the World War and appeared in New York about seven years ago, but was not used extensively in this country until last year. Last Saturday the CIO Gas and Coke Products and Chemical Workers' Union picketed the homes of four non-union employes. The United Workers' Organizing Committee, one of the more powerful CIO unions, and the United Coffee, Spice & Pickle Workers also expect to start home picketing, it was learned.

The only American Federation of Labor Union to picket St. Louis homes so far was Casket Workers' Local 137, now on strike. Joseph Lugo, an international representative of the Upholsterers' Union, to which the casket workers are affiliated, said his organization did not intend to continue this type of persuasion generally.

CIO leaders said home picketing has resulted in "quite a few" applications for union membership from non-union workers. The principal purpose of the picketing, the CIO head said, was to advise the neighbors of a non-union worker that they were not co-operating in the union's effort to obtain better hours and conditions for wage-earners.

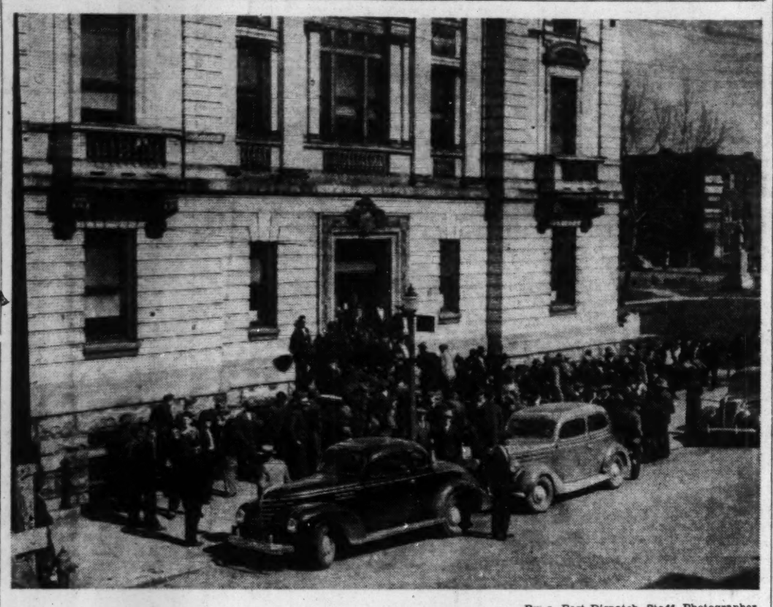

Circulars for Passersby.

Circulars handed out to passers-by by the pickets contain the name and address of the non-union worker, his place of employment, the number of union employes of that particular plant and the period during which the individual has been employed, his refusal to join the union. Neighbors are requested to "help the non-union worker urging him to become a union member and to help make St. Louis a better place to live in."

Lugo's home was picketed beginning March 11, when Fiering and two other pickets were arrested.

Assistant Prosecuting Attorney ... L. Mushlin told the Post-Dispatch that no warrants would be issued because the evidence would not support a charge of illegal assembly. Mushlin explained that the person picketed could seek an injunction to stop the practice.

Police Ejecting Marchers From East St. Louis City Hall

CHURCHMEN URGE SUPPORT OF STARK

13 Pastors and Religious Editors Declare Graft Endangers Democracy.

A statement urging support by churches and other organizations for Gov. Stark's fight for "better government for city and State" was issued yesterday by 13 pastors and editors of religious publications.

The statement is similar to the resolution adopted Thursday night by 350 ministers and members of the 26 Methodist Episcopal churches, South, in St. Louis and St. Louis County, at a meeting of the St. Louis District of Missouri Methodists. Six denominations are represented in the statement.

"All agree that these are perilous days for democracy," the ministers state. "Its fate hangs in the balance. What has happened elsewhere may happen here. Many are asking, 'Will the totalitarian idea overcome the democratic and banish it from the face of the earth?'

Dangers at Home.

"The dangers that our democracy faces are not all across the water. Here in America the tragedy of inefficient government, of graft in high places, the tie-up between the underworld and government officials of many kinds, the election of poorly trained and spineless men to office, bode ill for that form of government which we believe in. Back of the danger of Communism and Fascism is the lack of interest on the part of our electorate. Far too many stay at home on election day. The right of franchise should be used by every citizen, every time the polling places are open.

"When there comes into power in city, State or nation, a leader who has a conscience, who is concerned about good government, who would put out of business the grafting politician and the racketeer, it is the business of every good citizen, of every church and worthwhile organization to support him to the limit.

"When the Governor of Missouri enters the fray on behalf of better government for city and State, we feel that Christian people should, without hesitation, give him their allegiance and call upon their legislators to back him in the effort he is putting forth for the restoration of good government and the salvation of our democracy."

LAMBERT PHARMACAL CO. CITED UNDER PATMAN ACT

Accused of Granting Percentage Rebates, in Addition to Regular Discounts.

WASHINGTON, April 1 (AP). —The Federal Trade Commission announced today it had issued a complaint charging the Lambert Pharmacal Co. of St. Louis with violation of the Robinson-Patman Act.

The complaint charges the company with granting percentage rebates on monthly purchases of its products, in addition to regular trade discounts allowed all customers. Customers receiving these rebates, it is alleged, furnished the company in turn with advertising, selling or warehousing facilities and placed orders for stated minimum quantities of Lambert products.

The commission granted the company 20 days to file an answer.

Robert L. Lund, executive vice-president of the firm, issued the following statement:

"The selling methods referred to in the Federal Trade Commission statement have been in use by this company for some seven years, several years before enactment of the Robinson-Patman Act in 1936. The plan has been generally acceptable to our customers, whom the Robinson-Patman Act is designed to protect. The proceeding seems to have been undertaken for the purpose of arriving at an interpretation of the act and the Lambert Pharmacal Co. will be glad to cooperate with the Federal Trade Commission to this end."

WOMAN GRAVELY HURT IN FIGHT WITH HUSBAND AT TAVERN

She Is Knocked Down on Sidewalk After Hitting Him With a Beer Glass.

Mrs. Florence Meyers, 4462 Page boulevard, is in a grave condition at City Hospital with a skull fracture suffered early today when she was knocked down by her husband, Andrew, a shoe worker, in front of a tavern at 1234 North Taylor avenue.

Police reported he admitted beating her after she hit him in the head with a beer glass in the tavern. They began quarreling Thursday night, resumed the argument last night in a tavern in the 4400 block of Easton avenue and then met again early today in the Taylor avenue tavern.

Mrs. Meyers admitted hitting her husband in the head with a beer glass, police said. Both she and her husband are 32 years old. He is held at the Deer Street Station.

CONTROL OF FLY ASH URGED AS HEALTH AID

Dutch Engineer Says European Countries for Years Have Required Catchers.

Control of fly ash at power plant stacks is required by considerations of public interest and community economics as well as public health, Herman Van Tongeren of Heemstede, Holland, inventor of fly ash and dust collector systems and consultant for large European industries, said last night in a talk before the St. Louis section of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers at the Marquette Hotel.

As a result of the recent announcement by Smoke Commissioner Raymond R. Tucker that provisions of the St. Louis anti-smoke ordinance requiring use of dust catchers at plants using pulverized coal would be enforced and public statements on the injurious effect of fly ash by Charles J. Colley, power engineer for the Monsanto Chemical Co., more than 100 power engineers representing large industries attended the meeting.

Little Regulation in U. S.

The necessity of collecting at the plant tons of fly ash—hard minute dust particles, now thrown into the air from stacks and carried miles by the wind—is much greater in the United States than in Europe where far less pulverized coal is burned, Von Tongeren said. Although there has been little regulation in the United States, European countries for years have required installation of dust catching equipment either by specific ordinances or under general nuisance laws. American housewives and property owners have been much more patient, the speaker remarked.

Although the area over which fly ash will be distributed may be determined by engineers by use of formulae in which height of stack, wind velocity and size of particles are factors, frequently there are local conditions which are responsible for marked variations, Von Tongeren pointed out.

Duplicate of St. Louis Problem.

Quite by chance, he told of a problem created by a power plant in Germany. The plant, he said, was immediately across a river from the city. Cooler air over the river caused even the smallest and more buoyant particles to lose altitude and the air currents set up by large buildings brought concentrated precipitation of fly ash in the city.

Somewhat to Von Tongeren's discomfiture, some engineers in his audience pointed out that the example he gave duplicated the situation created in St. Louis by the Cahokia plant of the Union Electric Co. of Missouri. An officer of the company recently told the Post-Dispatch the company planned to do nothing to stop its spread of fly ash over St. Louis.

Even with perfect combustion, Von Tongeren said, fly ash cannot be eliminated. He recommended that stoker-fired plants, although creating fewer and larger particles of fly ash, also be equipped with dust catchers.

Cost of fly ash collection in Europe has been reduced somewhat by some plants, he said, by sale of the ash as a filler for asphalt pavements. In the United States small quantities have been used satisfactorily as an ingredient of cement.

UNEMPLOYED MAN HANGS SELF

C. B. Shepard, 69, Was Discharged as WPA Watchman.

Charles B. Shepard, unemployed, hanged himself yesterday at his home, 4253A North Broadway. He was 69 years old.

His body, suspended from a window sash thrown over a closet door, was discovered by his wife, Louise, when she returned from an overnight visit with relatives. Shepard was discharged as a WPA watchman last Nov. 23 when a foreman reported he found him asleep on the job.

EAST SIDE PADDING OF PAYROLLS FOR VOTES BACKFIRES

200, Added in Election Campaign, March on City Hall and Demand Their Pay Immediately.

Padding of the City Hall payrolls to produce loyal administration supporters, an old pre-election custom in East St. Louis, backfired this morning when more than 200 of the workers added to the rolls in the last month moved into the City Hall in a body and demanded that they be paid immediately for their work.

They didn't get their pay, because the City Council has not yet approved the March payroll, and after about 45 minutes of crowded and chaotic scenes in the corridors they were ordered out by police. They left quietly, but the comment of one elderly man in worn corduroy trousers and shoes caked with mud from his work on an alley cleaning project appeared typical of the group's sentiments.

"I'll show them how to stall me off," he said as he departed. "I'll vote the other ticket."

The demonstration apparently was designed to avoid the experience of the extra employes taken on in previous election years, who sometimes had to wait several months for their pay because the city attempted to spread the additional expense over a long period instead of causing a single heavy drain on the treasury.

Rumor of Scrip Payment Plan.

A rumor also had spread among the workers that they were to be paid off in scrip, redeemable only in grocery stores, instead of in cash. They were prepared to resist any such move to the utmost.

Some of the City Hall politicians who commented on the demonstration to a Post-Dispatch reporter, however, minimized the role of these two possible causes. They attributed the demonstration to a shabby trick by the opposition ticket, which they said had sent men around to inform the workers that today was pay day.

The men, mostly in work clothes, packed the corridors of the building and pressed against an office at which city employes receive pay checks. They refused to budge even after City Clerk John Tierney's worried protests that they would receive their money on April 10, the regular pay day.

City Treasurer T. E. Krebs, in charge of paying city employes, was not in his office when the crowd gathered early this morning, and the workers were ready to stand pat awaiting his arrival.

In reply to a question by a Post-Dispatch reporter concerning the scrip rumor, Tierney said the reports were false. The city was prepared to pay all its additional employes in cash April 10, he said, but could not make payment today.

$2500 Increase in Payroll.

Most of the men had $12 coming, at the rate of $4 a day for three days. By providing three days' work for each man, the city had managed to give out about 800 jobs in the last four weeks, with a shift of 100 new workers starting each Monday and being replaced Thursday by another group. The jobs increased the city's normal weekly payroll of $10,000 to about $12,500.

Hiring of the men was described in the Post-Dispatch last Thursday. The move, in charge of Commissioner of Streets John T. English, was in what English frankly termed the expectation the men would "vote the straight administration ticket and get their families and friends to do the same."

The City Hall ticket, backed by Dan McGlynn's Republican organization, is headed by Finance Commissioner John T. Connors, candidate for Mayor. The opposing ticket, headed by Public Administrator John M. Karns, is supported by the Levee Board, dominated by John J. Hallihan, Democratic leader.

The Levee Board also has attempted to increase its number of loyal supporters by supplying jobs in the weeks before the election, which will be held next Tuesday. Although the board ordinarily has only 110 employes, it has added about 300 new workers recently.

After the incident this morning, members of the City Hall group were disconsolate about the results of their job-distributing efforts. One of them, who declined to permit use of his name, shook his head sadly as he watched the workers leave.

"This is going to hurt us like the devil," he said.

STRIKERS TO RETURN TO WORK ON MUNICIPAL THEATER JOB

Union Electricians and Contractor Reach Agreement; Details Withheld.

Union electricians who went on strike Tuesday at the Municipal Theater in Forest Park will return to work Monday as the result of a settlement reached yesterday.

George L. Gamp, president of the Gamp Electric Co., which has the contract for the electrical work on the $200,000 improvement job now under way, declined to state the terms of the agreement, as did Harry Brady, business agent of Electrical Workers Local 1. The strike, involving six electricians and two laborers, was called because of the contractor's purchase of equipment from the Edwin F. Guth Co., where union members are on strike.

$104,000 FOUND IN MISS PIM'S BANK LOCKBOX

With Money Previously Turned Up in Her Home, Estate Will Total at Least $144,000.

The estate of the late Miss Louise E. Pim will total at least $144,000 as the result of the finding of $104,000, mostly in old currency, in her safe deposit box in the Mercantile-Commerce Bank & Trust Co. yesterday.

There was $103,595 in old bills ranging from $1 to $1000 denominations and five $100 Government bonds.

A few days after her death March 21, $40,000 in old currency was discovered in the square piano in her home at 2604 North Eleventh street. She was 89 when she died, the last of four brothers and four sisters who had become wealthy from the sale of Missouri lead land and had lived frugally in the same rented house for more than 70 years.

The bills found in the safe deposit box were of various denominations, Joseph W. White, trust officer of the bank, said. Present when the box was opened were Mrs. Oscar J. Pim, a niece; Archbishop John J. Glennon, co-executor with the bank of the estate; and three witnesses appointed by the Probate Court.

Miss Pim had lived alone at the North Eleventh street home since the death of her sister Fannie in 1929. The other brothers and sisters had died earlier.

After her death, bank officers made a detailed search of the home for other assets, but found none. White said an inventory of the estate would be filed soon in Probate Court.

The sale of lead land in St. Francois County earned the Pim family at least $240,000 in the last 40 years. In 1899 they received more than $100,000 for 80 acres from the old Columbia Lead Co. and in 1916 they sold a 600-acre tract to the National Lead Co. for $140,250. Except for a few small personal bequests, Miss Pim's estate will go to Catholic charities.

LAND CEMETERY ISN'T USING FOR BURIAL IS HELD TAXABLE

Supreme Court Upholds Circuit Court Ruling in Valhalla Assessment Case.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 1.—Division No. 1 of the Supreme Court affirmed today a Circuit Court ruling that a tract of land in St. Louis County held by the National Cemetery Association and its affiliate, the Valhalla Cemetery Association, which had not been used as a cemetery or platted for burial lots, was not exempt from taxation.

The lower court dismissed a suit by the National Cemetery Association, in which the Valhalla Association, operator of the Valhalla cemetery, had intervened. The suit was to cancel a tax assessment on 65 acres of undeveloped land adjoining the Valhalla cemetery, and to enjoin the County Collector from selling the tract for delinquent taxes.

Judge James M. Douglas, who wrote the opinion, held the land had not been used for cemetery purposes and did not come within the constitutional provision exempting cemeteries from taxation. He said the Legislature had not enacted a statute covering tax exemption for cemeteries, but ruled the constitutional provision on the subject was self-executing, and an enabling act was not necessary.

TREASURY DEBT GOES ABOVE 40 BILLIONS

It Is Now Within $5,000,000,000 of Statutory Limit and Is Largest in History.

WASHINGTON, April 1 (AP).—The Treasury's debt passed the $40,000,000,000 mark today, coming within $5,000,000,000 of the statutory limit.

Although the administration has considered increasing the legal debt ceiling to $50,000,000,000, it has decided against asking Congress to make the change this year.

The debt, largest in the nation's history, now is equivalent to approximately $305 a person. A year ago, the $37,556,302,000 debt equaled $289.17 per capita.

Other milestones were the prewar low of $1,282,044,346, equal to $12.36; the high of World War financing, $25,478,592,113, equal to $250.18¾ the post-war low of $16,026,087,087, equal to $129.66; and the pre-Roosevelt point of $20,937,350,964 on March 3, 1933.

The debt has increased $2,850,000,000 in the last year alone.

Today's debt is a few millions over $40,000,000,000 because of the customary first-of-the-month borrowing of $50,000,000 from the old age reserve fund. The exact figure for today will not be available for a few days, however.

The Treasury debt does not include the $5,400,000,000 obligations of governmental corporations which are guaranteed by the Treasury but are excluded from the Treasury indebtedness because of the assumption that the corporations will repay them. The guaranteed debts include: Home Owners' Loan Corporation, $2,900,000,000; Reconstruction Finance Corporation, $810,000,000; Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation, $1,385,000,000; Commodity Credit Corporation, $205,000,000; and United States Housing Authority, $100,000,000.

OPEN VERDICT AT INQUEST IN ILLINOIS BOMBING MURDER

Coroner's Jury at Elizabethtown Hears No Additional Testimony in Case.

ELIZABETHTOWN, Ill., April 1 (AP).—A coroner's jury returned an open verdict today in the death of Earl Austin, 46-year-old NYA superintendent of Hardin County, who was killed at Cave-in-Rock March 20 when a dynamite bomb wrecked his truck.

The ury on March 24 heard 14 witnesses, most of them relatives of Austin or persons who went to aid him and his companion, Miss Lacene McDowell, 22, whose left leg was mangled in the explosion.

No additional testimony was presented when the jury convened this morning.

The jury said the circumstances "constitute murder, and we recommend that there be a grand jury investigation." Such an inquiry is already under way and three persons are in jail at Harrisbury. Two of them, Mrs. Alice Austin, the widow, and Theodore Simmons, a neighbor, are charged with murder in warrants sworn out by T. H. Austin, half-brother of the victim. No charges have been filed against Ira Scott, a farmhand.

STARK SAYS MOST KANSAS CITYANS BACK HIM IN FIGHT

Declares 'Flood' of Letters Makes Him Confident 90 Pct. Favor State Control of Police.

GOVERNOR TO GO ON AIR TOMORROW

Will Speak on Crime Situation in State From Columbia Radio Station KFRU at 12:30 P. M.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 1.—Gov. Lloyd C. Stark said late yesterday he was confident that 90 per cent of the residents and business men of Kansas City were "whole-heartedly" in support of his drive to take control of the Kansas City police from the Pendergast political machine and place it in the hands of the State.

He said he had received a "flood" of letters from Kansas City expressing approval of his plan. He said the writers indicated they welcomed the opportunity to rid their police of the domination of the politicians.

"Present conditions in Kansas City have been hurting the merchants and business in general," the Governor asserted. "All the money that has been flowing into gambling and the rackets could be used to buy food and clothing for children. I think that when the police are cleaned up and rackets and vice removed, there will be a decided upswing in business in Kansas City and the Kansas City area."

He said one business man generally regarded as a supporter of the Kansas City organization wrote him that he was in favor of the clean-up drive. The writer told him, the Governor said, that one man who handles the same commodity as he gets all the business for supplying that commodity to city institutions in Kansas City because of connections with political leaders.

Gov. Stark announced he would speak tomorrow at 12:30 p. m. over radio station KFRU at Columbia on the crime situation in Missouri.

Kansas City C. of C. Committee Opposes Stark Proposal.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 1 (AP).—The Legislative Committee of the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce voted yesterday to oppose Gov. Stark's proposal for State control of the police department.

MAN ENDS HIS LIFE IN RIVER

Jumps Into Water From Bank South of Mullanphy Street.

A white man about 45 years old dressed in a blue suit coat and brown trousers was reported to have jumped into the Mississippi River about 40 feet south of Mullanphy street last night.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Williams, Negroes who live in the neighborhood, told police the man floated about 100 yards down stream, then sank. He had been walking up and down the river bank all afternoon, they said. A brown overcoat the man left behind bore no identifying marks.

Fascism vs. What?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE cartoon of March 29, showing "The Spanish Republic" dead at the pillar, appears to be a very definite continuation of your questionable stand on the Spanish conflict. Despite evidence to the contrary, you have insisted that the civil war was a conflict between Fascism and democracy.

For proof to the contrary, I refer you to an Associated Press dispatch from Moscow on March 14. In it Communist Dmitri Manuilsky openly boasted: "Communist parties in 53 countries sent into the ranks of the International Brigade large numbers of members, central committees and party leaders. . . . These are people of the Stalin era. The creation of the International Brigade is proof of the maturity of the Communist movement."

From that open admission it becomes crystal clear the abused democracy versus Fascism label simply does not apply to the Spanish conflict. Thinking people mourn the loss of the democratic form of government anywhere as being a blow to the progress of man. It is perfectly apparent, however, that democracy did not die in Spain with the victory of Franco. Its requiem was tolled many months before when the Communist influence permeated the then existing regime and rendered it incapable of carrying out the normal functions of government.

Thinking people, too, soberly ponder the future of Spain as a nation and in its relation to the ominous European situation. That is another question, however. But to maintain, in spite of the definite evidence to the contrary, that the struggle between Franco and the loyalists was one of Fascism versus democracy is simply to close one's eyes to the facts of the case. R. E. KRINGS.

Hannegan's Hand-Picked Candidates.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I NOTE where Big Boss Hannegan has ordered his Democratic serfs to vote for Messrs. Sullivan, Fitzgerald, Pohlman and Fleischle in the coming non-partisan School Board election. Since those favored ones apparently have not the intestinal fortitude to resent this impudent meddling, every self-respecting citizen should welcome this opportunity to repudiate Hannegan and Rat Alley at the polls by scratching these four hand-picked candidates. ANTI-BOSS.

The Peace Ballots.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE ballot which the Peace Council of Greater St. Louis will submit to the young men of this district on April 6, begins as follows: "I want to exercise my democratic right to state under what circumstances I would be willing to serve in the armed forces if the United States becomes involved in war."

How can any American who understands the obligations of a citizen to his country want to spend a whole evening discussing the circumstances under which he "would be willing to serve in the armed forces if the United States becomes involved in war"? After the conflict has started, every good citizen would, of course, want to support his country to the utmost, to prevent defeat. If his services were needed in the armed forces, he would be ready to enlist.

A more worth while and logical approach would be to begin the ballot as follows: "I want to state under what circumstances I believe the United States is justified in engaging in war. Should there be a possibility of war for any other reasons, I would exercise my democratic right to influence Congress to avoid an armed conflict." CITIZEN.

As to Catholic Refugees.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

A FEW days ago a concert was given by Mischa Elman at the Municipal Auditorium. An article in the Post-Dispatch stated that the proceeds would be distributed among "Jewish, Protestant and Catholic refugees."

Would it be impertinent to ask how much of this money went to Catholic "refugees"? And could you, or some of your readers, give me the names of say one or two Catholic refugees? I have not been able to find any.

DR. JOHN H. SIMON.

No Time to Lose!

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE surprise is not that Hitler took Czecho-Slovakia. The wonder is that anybody could be surprised that he did.

No matter how much we cherish peace, we cannot avoid the eventuality of war by the ostrich method, nor can we save ourselves by saying, "It's not our affair." Be sure that if the Nazis conquer Europe and strengthen their foothold in South America, they will not soften their blow against us one whit, simply because we have refused to oppose their policy forcefully up to this time.

Certainly, we should not send troops to Europe now, but the time for diplomatic niceties has passed. In our own selfish interest, we must do everything we can to help the European democracies stop Hitler now. There is no time to lose! BALANCER.

BRITAIN'S PLEDGE TO POLAND.

Mr. Chamberlain's promise of military aid to save Poland from the Nazis has highly significant aspects, and it has ironic aspects as well. For the first time in history, Britain has made military commitments east of the Rhine. The decision to marshal the non-Fascist nations into a "stop Hitler" bloc, which followed the final act in the tragedy of Czecho-Slovakia, has now led Chamberlain to reverse traditional policy by pledging British blood to preserve Poland.

The irony enters in the fact that it is Poland which is the subject of this guaranty—a guaranty which the beleaguered Czechs sought last year and were denied. Strategically, the iron ring of the Czech border was far better suited to defense than the Polish frontier, encircled as it now is by Nazi expansion. And morally, the Czech cause was a far better one than Poland's; Czecho-Slovakia was for two decades a beacon light of democracy, while Poland is a totalitarian state, ruled by military dictatorship, where minorities are savagely oppressed and civil liberties are strangled. Finally, the Czech territories were never German, while Poland holds districts separated from the Reich by the peace treaty.

Mr. Chamberlain's guaranty, however, is not so sweeping as it would seem. It applies only to "any action which clearly threatened Polish independence." Clearly, German annexation of Danzig, now under Nazi control, would be no such threat; Danzig is a free city, supposedly under League control, and Poland has no sovereign rights there. Similarly, a Nazi move toward the Polish Corridor, which separates East Prussia from the remainder of Germany, would not be such a threat. In any event, British opinion could scarcely be expected to rouse its fighting temperature to save territory to which Hitler has a far more valid claim than he had for Czecho-Slovakia.

And what of Poland? Accepting such a contract as Britain now offers will mean a reversal of the canny foreign policy Poland has followed since Hitler came into power.

That policy has been founded on self-reliance and tight-rope walking. Poland has fought shy of joining any bloc, has treated her two powerful neighbors impartially, avoided stirring enmities and has devoted almost half her revenues to national defense. The policies of Col. Josef Beck, Foreign Minister, are in line with those of cagy old Marshal Pilsudski. A recent writer, Henry C. Wolfe, summarized them in the New Republic last week as follows:

> Beck's foreign policies are based on the simple formula that Poland can rely on no nation but herself. The Colonel looks with distrust upon the League, the promises of the Western democracies and multilateral security pacts. He has no faith whatever in the word of the Nazis. When the inevitable showdown with Germany comes, Poland will welcome help from Britain and France. But Beck is too shrewd to count on it.

There had been indications in recent days, before Chamberlain spoke, that the Polish-German issues would be solved by negotiation. Whether his statement will speed or hamper such a solution remains to be seen. Poland had already expressed determination to fight if invaded, and Hitler has never yet moved in the face of such a threat.

ST. LOUIS ANSWERS THE D. A. R.

This city tonight states its opinion of the bigoted and un-American attitude taken by the organization that bears the proud name, Daughters of the American Revolution. That opinion is stated in the concrete form of a record outpouring of citizens for the concert by Marian Anderson, acclaimed as one of the world's greatest contraltos, who was barred from the D. A. R.'s hall in Washington because she is a member of the Negro race. The Opera House of the Municipal Auditorium will be packed tonight in tribute to Miss Anderson's artistry. It was sold out 48 hours before the concert, and thus a precedent was set in Auditorium history. Yet the demand continued, and standing room is to be sold.

St. Louis thus lives up to its venerable tradition of fair play and tolerance. The artist is accepted here on a basis of ability alone, with no concern for race or creed. St. Louis is often described as a Southern city, because of its location and history, but its liberal spirit far outweighs any influence of regional prejudice. By its voluntary salute to Marian Anderson, St. Louis rebukes the D. A. R. for a narrow-minded policy which some of its own members, notably Mrs. Roosevelt, cannot endure.

TO AVERT CYCLING TRAGEDIES.

After the recent killing of a 12-year-old girl cyclist by a truck, the second such fatality this spring, we proposed as a safety measure the repeal of the archaic city ordinance barring bicycles from the sidewalks. It is of value to consider the problem in its larger aspects.

When ordinances of this type were passed, there were relatively few motor vehicles, and no great number of bicycles. Today, both have vastly increased in number, until there are now about 30,000,000 motor vehicles and some 7,000,000 bicycles in the country. Their mingling on the streets and highways produces a shocking roll of deaths and injuries each year. In 1938, according to figures compiled by the Travelers' Insurance Co., 770 persons were killed and 34,110 injured in collisions between motor vehicles and bicycles. In St. Louis, figures for last year are incomplete, but 226 persons were injured in bicycle accidents in 1937. Almost half of them were juveniles.

Several cities have found a means of checking this slaughter and maiming by permitting cyclists to use the sidewalks. A large city that does so is Cleveland. Another is the progressive Chicago suburb of Wilmette. It is an obviously sensible practice, since it removes youthful riders from their greatest danger, the whizzing autos and trucks of the street. Pedestrians are far fewer than in the days when the ordinance was passed, and there would be correspondingly less danger on that score.

An authority on cyclist safety is Lieut. Richard O. Bennett of the Lincoln (Neb.) Police Department. He has made a special study of the problem, both in line of duty and at the Northwestern University Traffic Safety Institute. From his wealth of knowledge in this field, Lieut. Bennett has drafted a model municipal bicycle ordinance, which carries this paragraph:

> The Chief of Police shall specify the sections of the city where a bicyclist is permitted to ride on the sidewalks. However, if a pedestrian is struck by a bicyclist riding on a sidewalk in such sections, the burden of proof shall be on the bicycle rider that he was not riding in a reckless manner.

This would seem to be the ideal solution. Parents should be able to impress upon their children the need for due caution when riding on the walks. And what a vast burden of anxiety would be off the parents' minds if sons and daughters were no longer dodging death among the hazards of the streets!

What St. Louis Alderman will introduce a bill for this commonsense safety measure?

PICTURE OF LOBBYISTS AT WORK.

An illuminating case history of how the utility lobby headed by officers of the Union Electric Co. goes about its appointed task of gaining control of State legislators was related in yesterday's Post-Dispatch. Ignoring the possibility that he may suffer from professional reprisals, John P. Moberly, a Houston lawyer and a former member of the Legislature, told how a group including a vice-president of Union Electric offered him up to $2000 for campaign expenditures when he was a prospective candidate for the State Senate in 1934.

Another former Representative with integrity, Monroe Case of Elkland, told how he refused to accept overtures for a gift of between $1000 and $2000 from "St. Louis utilities" when he was running for the Republican nomination to the Senate in 1936. Because he refused to compromise himself, he was never informed definitely what "utilities" they were.

It is a depressing picture which Moberly drew of the meeting he had in the Pennant Hotel at Rolla with Albert C. Laun, vice-president and ace lobbyist for Union Electric; Anthony A. Buford, professional lobbyist of Jefferson City, and Harry D. Griffith, a State Highway Department engineer. These men were boldly counting on the fact that a candidate usually needs a campaign fund. Imagine their surprise when Mr. Moberly replied, "I do not need your money. If I run, I will finance my own campaign."

But if this was a shock to the genial host of the lobbying hostelry at the Lake of the Ozarks, there must have been compensating memories of assorted candidates who did not turn down campaign funds merely because strings were attached.

And where was the money coming from? Could it have come from the coffers of the Union Electric Land & Development Co., which, though capitalized at only $10,000, swallowed up $2,000,000 of the parent corporation's money in a single year?

All these are questions the answers to which may be known when the Securities and Exchange Commission gets through with its investigation of the business and lobbying activities of Union Electric.

In the crisis induced by the SEC probe, Union Electric has availed itself of a new ally in the person of Homer S. Cummings, who recently resigned as Attorney-General with the revealing statement that he must make some money before he grows old. It is entirely in character for Mr. Cummings to offer his legal services and whatever political influence he amassed as a Government official to corporate interests for a consideration, and it is still more in character for the lobby-minded officials of Union Electric to clutch at him much as a drowning man would grasp at a straw.

But it appears likely that the new chairman of the SEC will be a man with whom Mr. Cummings will have little influence, and in that case we may have a picture of corporate lobbying of such proportions that the Moberly and Case episodes will be dwarfed into obscurity.

Yes, we could do pretty well with a lot less of Adolf Hitler, and in our pursuit of happiness that fellow Clark Gable is no indispensable man, either.

IN REPLY TO AN INQUIRY.

We are glad to enlighten the reader who asks in the letter column today for specific data on Catholic refugees. We quote from the Commonweal, a Catholic weekly, issue of March 10:

> The plight of German Catholics is indicated in its extremes by the fact that 35,000 religious have appealed for aid to the office of the Committee for Catholic Refugees from Germany at 123 Second street, New York City. Most of them are teaching sisters who have been forced out of their schools, which provided their only means of livelihood. Another group that is in great difficulties comprises converts to the church from Judaism, and Catholics who have Jewish blood in their veins.

At the suggestion of Archbishop Rommel of New Orleans, chairman of the Bishops' Committee for Catholic Refugees, a general collection for these persecuted individuals was taken in many Catholic churches on Sunday, March 19.

As to the division of revenue produced by Mr. Elman's generosity in devoting the proceeds of his entire season to the refugees, our reader need feel no apprehension. Ex-Gov. Alfred E. Smith is honorary chairman of the national committee under whose auspices Mr. Elman appeared, and many other distinguished Catholics are among its members.

Away out on the fringe of the London crowd that said farewell to President Lebrun of France was King George.

GOV. STARK AND THE CIVIL SERVICE BILL.

In the last few weeks, three states have been added to the list of those operating under civil service. North Carolina, Rhode Island and Alabama, in quick succession, have discarded the waste and inefficiency of the spoils system and replaced it with the merit system of selecting public employes. The total of states having civil service now stands at 16.

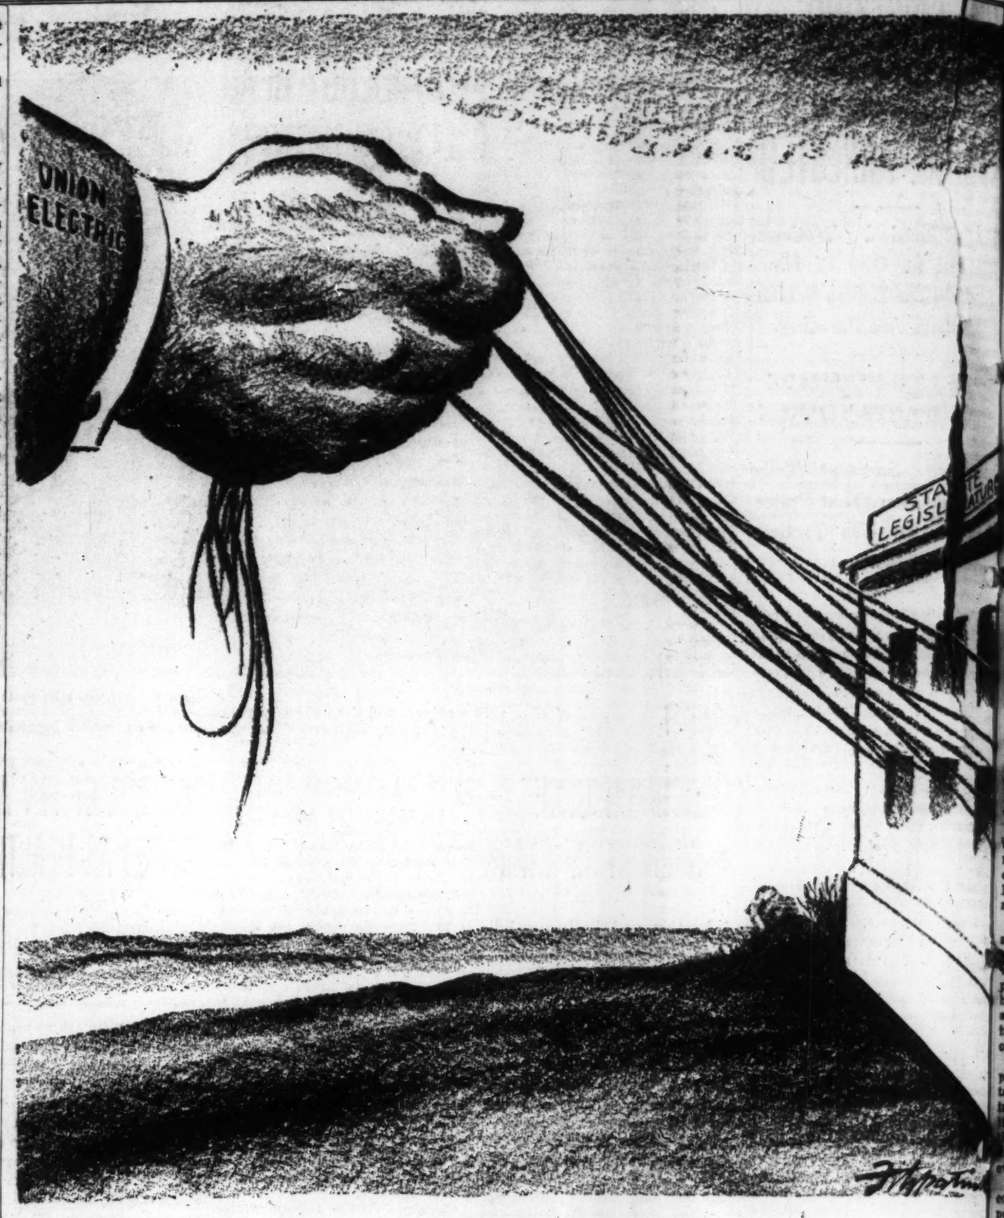

When will Missouri be added to the list? The time is opportune. An admirable bill to set up a State civil service system is pending in the Legislature. In addition to the backing of various civic and professional groups, this measure has the vigorous support of the American Legion.

Passage of this bill would do more than any other legislative achievement to endow Gov. Stark's administration with lasting distinction. Many of the nation's greatest Governors—Grover Cleveland, Robert Marion La Follette, Judson Harmon, Hiram Johnson and Albert Ritchie, to mention a few—numbered among their claims to repute the fact that they were responsible for the establishment of civil service in their respective states.

If Gov. Stark will use his influence in Jefferson City and if the voters will bring sufficient pressure to bear upon their legislators from back home, the civil service bill can be passed.

Should the bill be defeated in the Legislature, the fight should be—and, we understand, will be—carried to the voters by means of the initiative and referendum. As to what the voters would do to the spoilsmen, there is little room for doubt.

The present Attorney-General's name isn't Homer, and he doesn't nod. After trying vainly to see him, there was nothing left for Boss Tom's nephew but "Home, James."

Wanted: More Puritans

The Mirror of Public Opinion

England is going soft, since its people prefer to stay at home rather than seek fortunes in world's unsettled areas, says "Gloomy Dean"; thinks the "wage habit" and self-indulgence are undermining their virility; urges nation return to hard work, plain living and thrift.

From "Our Present Discontents," by the Very Rev. William R. Inge (Putnam, London, Publisher); Reprinted From Magazine Digest.

ABOUT 50 years ago, Sir John Seeley's "Expansion of England" was read by everybody. The expansion was indeed a wonderful thing.

Our little island, seething with energy, had sent out millions of colonists to fill, with inhabitants of our own flesh and blood, the vast empty spaces which we had staked out for our prosperity. We looked forward to seeing Britons beyond the seas, richer, happier and more populous than in the home country. We had an opportunity which, in the nature of things, can never be given again to any country.

It was an amazing piece of good fortune which, if properly used, would insure for many ages to come the preponderance of the English-speaking race in the civilized world.

Fortune gave us this splendid opportunity, and I fear we are throwing it away. All over the world our race is losing ground. Our birth rate is the lowest in Europe except that of Sweden. We are burdened with the support of a great many unemployed, and yet we cannot keep out the Southern Irish, who hate our nation, our Government and our religion, because they will do rough work which Englishmen refuse to touch.

Emigration has entirely ceased; our people will not go, and the dominions do not want them. There is no country in the world where the British workman, such as the trade unions and politicians have made him, is welcome. It begins to be questionable whether from the economic point of view we have any survival value.

It is no use to say that the dominions cannot receive immigrants because many of their own people are out of work. It is no use to say that half of Canada is too cold and half of Australia too dry for colonization. Make any deductions you like, it is still absurd that the population of England per square mile is 750, of Canada three, of Australia two. The maldistribution is grotesque.

* * *

The mischief is that we no longer breed pioneers. We have all got "the wage habit" and many other habits, too, which can be gratified only in the great towns, which, in Australia as in England, absorb far too large a fraction of the population.

And now we have our most distinguished economists—men like Sir Arthur Salter, Sir George Schuster and John Maynard Keynes—telling us that the remedy for our troubles is increased consumption. Multiply economic wants and the means of satisfying them and the world will go round merrily.

To me this sounds like the fabulous island where the inhabitants lived by taking in each other's washing. At any rate, these were not the maxims which made England great. Hard work, plain living and thrift made our country the workshop of the world.

One of my critics objects that in the last century men worked hard, and filled the emigrant ships, because they could not help it; needs must when the devil drives. I do not deny it; I am neither praising them nor blaming my own contemporaries. I merely point out that in Victoria's reign, the Empire was a going concern and now it is in danger of being a gone concern.

Besides, it is not true that it was only compulsion which drove us to expand. There was far more idealism in the grim and grimy England than it is fashionable to allow. Carlyle was thundering out his gospel of work—"Produce, produce something, in heaven's name." Clough was writing, "Go from the East to the West, as the sun and the stars direct thee. With the great girdle of God go and encompass the earth." Children were brought up on Kingsley's "Water Babies," describing the awful fate of the Do-as-you-likes, who left the land of Hardwork for the land of Readymade.

Is it really so certain that the future belongs to the high-standard nations? Would any English-speaking nation dare to admit Chinese and Japanese or Indians in large numbers?

Our "consumptionist" economists know their own subject better than I do, but none the less I believe they are wrong. From the moral point of view, I feel sure they are wrong. To multiply wants is not the way to be wise or happy. Whatever makes life more artificial makes it more precarious; the man with many wants is never independent.

* * *

The Christian life is not ascetic in the sense we give to the word. But we are to live in fairly hard training, like soldiers on a campaign or athletes competing in a race. "Thou, therefore, take thy share of hardship, as a good soldier of Jesus Christ."

This is what I mean by "Back to Puritanism." I cannot think of any nations which have ruined themselves by self-indulgence, but it is easy to find examples of families and classes which have done so. We need not take too tragic a view of our national character when we remember how we acquitted ourselves in the Great War. There was no softness then.

But the danger exists—a danger lest the nation which "speaks the tongue that Shakespeare spake, the faith and morals hold that Milton held," may from slackness and want of spirit throw away the most splendid opportunity ever offered to man, and relapse into a condition more in accordance with the narrow bounds of our island home than with the pride of an Empire which comprises one-quarter of the surface of the habitable globe and one-quarter of its inhabitants.

I shall be called a croaker for this, but I think I have spoken the truth. Bernard Shaw once called me a Quaker at heart. Perhaps I am; there are many worse things to be.

THE AMERICAN THEME.

From the Baltimore Sun.

LEWIS BROWNE told an audience at the Baltimore Open Forum that American novelists are passing from "a period of sharp criticism of the social order" to one in which they will praise the "origins of American life and its present benefits." That does, indeed, seem to be the case. The "proletarian school" fell into disfavor several years ago and the satirical "debunking" mode preceded the Leftist parable in decline.

But what one tends quite unjustly to ignore in respect of both these fashions in contemporary novel writing is that over and above any one author's achievement or point of view or "criticisms," they served to make use of native materials and so to renew interest in the richness of the American theme.

Married Women Who Work

From Editorial Research Reports.

SOME of the state Legislatures now in session are considering legislation to bar public jobs to married women. In Illinois and several other states, bills have been introduced forbidding the private employment of married women.

Nobody knows how many married women are at work today. The last national census of the subject was taken in 1930, when 3,071,302 of all "gainfully occupied" women were reported as married. Since 1930, total employment has declined, but the trend toward married woman at work has probably increased, especially among women who married after 1930, and it may be that the two factors have more or less canceled each other out. But in the census of 1930, the marital status of some women was unknown and all these were grouped with the "single." Not all the 3,071,302 married women were classified themselves as "gainfully occupied" in 1930 had jobs at the time.

Of all married women in 1930, 12 per cent were workers outside the home. Of all working women over 15, 29 per cent were married. Of all workers over 15, male and female, 11 per cent were married women.

Many of the 3,071,302 jobs held by married women in 1930 could not very well have been filled by men. More than a million were in domestic and personal service—as only servants in homes and hotels, but also laundresses (both in laundries and private homes), manicurists, boarding house keepers, charwomen.

There were about 100,000 married women stenographers and typists, and over 100,000 married woman clerks. There were 158,000 married woman teachers, 30,000 married trained nurses, over 50,000 married telephone operators, to say nothing of dressmakers and seamstresses, workers in millinery and women's clothing factories, social and religious workers.

In 1930-31, a New England firm made a study of a small group of its women employes who were married. In 7 per cent of the cases, the husband earned as much as $30 a week. In 22 per cent of the cases the husband was either totally unable to work or had left the wife. In 25 per cent of the cases, the husband was unemployed or employed part-time.

In 1931, a study was made at the University of Wisconsin of 60 women employed by the State outside of institutions. These reported 43 others totally dependent and 110 others partly dependent upon them.

In 1932, Congress enacted, as part of the Economy Act of that year, that if the personnel in the Government service were to be reduced, dismissals were to be made first of persons with a spouse also in the Government service. A study made by the Labor Department in 1935 showed that in 82 per cent of the cases involved, divorce or separation had been resorted to in order to regain the job lost. No studies were made of any effect of the legislation in causing marriage to be postponed or abandoned. This legislation was repealed in 1937.

A study made in 1935 by Dr. Cecile T. Follette of married woman workers showed that in 652 families studied, 676 dependents were being supported—281 in the home and 395 outside the home. These 652 families with the married women working employed 41 servants.

The Franc

OF all the events that have happened in Europe in the last months, it is the belief of this column that the victory of Gen. Franco in Spain will turn out to be the most critical event for Great Britain, France and, eventually, by way of South America, for the United States.

There have been several views on Spain. There is a predominant Catholic view—held by almost all Catholics all over the world, although there have been minority opinions even inside the Roman Catholic Church. The Catholic view has presented the war in Spain as essentially a struggle between religion and atheism, and between an orderly Catholic social order and Communism.

Liberal thought has tended to regard the struggle as between democracy and Fascism, with Spanish Communists and other radical groups supporting a Left Wing republic, and with the outrages against the church as temporary aberrations of a revolutionary situation.

Conservatives have considered Gen. Franco as a protector of private property, and Spanish industrialists have given Franco support for this reason.

* * *

Back of it all, however, has loomed the question of Power politics.

Russia's interest in Spain has indicated that Stalin has not completely abandoned the idea of Soviet Russia as the instrument of the world Communist revolution.

Russia as a nation, and not as the center of the world Communist movement, has only a remote interest in Spain. There are no vital Russian interests on the Mediterranean.

Russia, as a nation, however—as any nation, whether under a Czar or under a Communist dictator, or with any other form of social and political organization—is and would be anxious not to see the economic and political power of Germany increased as long as Germany has open designs on Russian territory.

Great Britain and France, and particularly Great Britain, have taken the official view that the war in Spain was a social struggle, that its outcome was no concern of theirs and that when it was over they would come to terms with whoever was victor.

The British confidence that this could be done has rested on the perennial British confidence in the power of money. The Conservative Government has argued that when Franco had won he would be in a bad way financially and could then be made amenable to British and French policy by generous loans.

* * *

The British and French have also counted on the disparate elements inside the Franco front; they have hoped for the eventual defeat of the Falangists before the more conservative elements in Franco's ranks, and they have argued that a strongly nationalist Spain would immediately get rid of foreign influence once it had consolidated its domestic power.

This viewpoint has always seemed to this column not to take into account the revolutionary nature of International Fascism, and the fact that the Fascintern is now consolidated into a movement with a world policy, directed from Berlin, as the Comintern is directed from Moscow.

Hypnotized by the fear of the Comintern, British and French public leaders have most obstinately refused to see the facts about the Fascintern.

It is entirely possible that every Italian soldier may leave Spain. But it is extremely probable that Spain will join the Berlin-Rome axis.

* * *

The German penetration in Spain is much less conspicuous than the Italian and much more important. Germany penetrates not by way of armed divisions but by commercial agents who are at the same time political commissars.

The German interest in Spain is, in the first line, economic. In the second line, it is collaborating with Italy there for military and strategic reasons.

The Germans have already obtained—and obtained in a very inconspicuous way—control over the most vital resources of the country.

It is entirely possible that every Italian soldier may leave Spain. But it is extremely probable that Spain will join the Berlin-Rome axis.

* * *

The German penetration in Spain is much less conspicuous than the Italian and much more important. Germany penetrates not by way of armed divisions but by commercial agents who are at the same time political commissars.

The German interest in Spain is, in the first line, economic. In the second line, it is collaborating with Italy there for military and strategic reasons.

The Germans have already obtained—and obtained in a very inconspicuous way—control over the most vital resources of the country. Their organization power, which is extremely efficient, is likely to hold these resources and even be of considerable value to Gen. Franco. For Germany will guarantee a market, and though she pays in kind she will be able to pay with things that Spain needs, even if some of the things are goods that she has bartered for in other countries and dumps in Spain below cost in return for Spanish ores and other raw materials.

The theory that money will always beat this system is not borne out either in logic or in experience. This system works, and the sooner the world realizes that it does work and is not economic nonsense, the better off the world will be.

Franco has received enormous favors from Italy and Germany—without them he would not have won this civil war or certainly not by now. He is infinitely weaker than they are, and the idea that he can accomplish what neither France nor Britain is willing to undertake seems to me to be plain wishful thinking.

* * *

This will affect us in the United States directly and indirectly. It will affect us directly because the orbit of the German economic system will be importantly extended. The amount of the globe whose commerce is controlled by totalitarian Powers—under a system incompatible with any measure of free economy and under a system with which it is extremely difficult for any other system of commerce to compete—is already imposing.

Furthermore, the distribution of American capital compels a certain amount of collaboration with this system at the cost of other American commercial interests.

For instance, the German Opel automobile is successfully competing with American cars in South America, although the Opel car is manufactured in Germany by General Motors, who purchased a controlling interest in the Opel works under the German Republic. The profits from the sale of this car are not allowed to return to the United States, but must remain and be reinvested in Germany.

Similarly, Rumanian oil is not owned by Rumanians nor by Germans but by Standard Oil, Royal Dutch and British Shell. This does not mean, however that these interests will be free under all political conditions to export oil as they please. They will have to operate in conformity with the new German-Rumanian treaty, and this will simply mean that American, Dutch and British capital will be helping to finance the economies of the dictatorships against which France, Great Britain and the United States are arming for defense.

In this sense—and in a great many others—we are arming the dictatorships, and they are certainly not in any sense arming us in return.

* * *

Indirectly, the outcome in Spain will have an enormous influence in South America, and this influence will not only be spread by commercial and propaganda agents of Gen. Franco but by commercial, propaganda and diplomatic agents of Germany, Italy and Japan, and it will be anti-United States.

Against this system the liberal democratic world has no adequate defense. It can build all the airplanes that it likes, its defenses are still inadequate. For it is not facing merely a combination of prodigious military power, which conceivably could be overweighed, but it is facing the most effective revolutionary technique that has ever yet been devised in history—the total revolution, pushed forward not by classes but by whole nations, controlling every military, economic and mental resource; with every embassy and consulate, every commercial office, every separate business man, acting as an agent for the nation, the combination of nations, and the revolution.

* * *

If conservatives would imagine for a moment that Germany had become Communist instead of Fascist and had won the whole nation to Communism and was in combination with three other Communistic nations situated in the most strategical positions amongst the continents of the globe, they might perhaps wake up to the fact that there is a menace to liberal democracy wherever it may still be alive and hopeful.

Married Women Who Work

From Editorial Research Reports.

SOME of the state Legislatures now in session are considering legislation to bar public jobs to married women. In Illinois and several other states, bills have been introduced forbidding the private employment of married women.

Nobody knows how many married women are at work today. The last national census of the subject was taken in 1930, when 3,071,302 of all "gainfully occupied" women reported as married. Since 1930, total employment has declined, but the trend toward married woman at work has probably increased, especially among women who married after 1930, and it may be that the two factors have more or less canceled each other out. But in the census of 1930, the marital status of some women was unknown and all these were grouped with the "single." Not all the 3,071,302 married women who classified themselves as "gainfully occupied" in 1930 had jobs at the time.

Of all married women in 1930, 12 per cent were workers outside the home. Of all women 15 to 29 per cent were married. Of all workers over 15, male and female, 11 per cent were married women.

Many of the 3,071,302 jobs held by married women in 1930 could not very well have been filled by men. More than a million were in domestic and personal service—as only servants in homes and hotels, but also laundresses (both in laundries and in homes), manicurists, boarding house keepers, charwomen.

There were about 100,000 married women stenographers and typists, and over 100,000 married woman clerks. There were 150,000 married woman teachers, 35,000 married trained nurses, over 50,000 married telephone operators, to say nothing of dressmakers and seamstresses, workers in millinery and women's clothing factories, social and religious workers.

In 1930-31, a New England firm made a study of a small group of its women employes who were married. In 7 per cent of the cases, the husband earned as much as $30 a week. In 22 per cent of the cases the husband was either totally unable to work or had left the wife. In 25 per cent of the cases, the husband was unemployed or employed part-time.

* * *

In 1931, a study was made at the University of Wisconsin of 60 women employed by the State outside of institutions. These reported 43 others totally dependent on them, 110 others partly dependent upon them.

In 1932, Congress enacted, as part of the Economy Act of that year, that if the personnel in the Government service were to be reduced, dismissals were to be made first of persons with a spouse also in the Government service. A study made by the Labor Department in 1935 showed that in 60 per cent of the cases involved, divorce or separation had been resorted to in order to regain the job lost. No studies were made of any effect of the legislation in causing marriage to be postponed or abandoned. This legislation was repealed in 1937.

A study made in 1935 by Dr. Cecile T. Follette of married woman workers showed that in 652 families studied, 676 dependents were being supported—281 in the home and 395 outside the home. These 652 families with the married women working employed 35 servants.

DR. ROBERT MOORE PATHOLOGY HEAD AT WASHINGTON U.

Associate Professor at Cornell Is Appointed Edward Mallinckrodt Professor and Department Chief.

Dr. Robert A. Moore, associate professor of pathology at Cornell University Medical College, New York, has been appointed Edward Mallinckrodt Professor of Pathology and head of that department at Washington University School of Medicine, it was announced today by Chancellor George R. Throop.

It was also announced that Dr. Felix Deutsch, noted phychologist, formerly of Vienna, has been named associate professor of psychosomatic medicine, the study of the effects of emotional experience on bodily health and disease.

Dr. D. K. Rose, a member of the medical faculty since 1915, has been appointed professor of clinical genito-urinary surgery and head of that division in the department of surgery.

Dr. Moore's Career.

Dr. Moore, who succeeds the late Dr. Howard A. McCordock, also will serve as pathologist for the hospitals affiliated with the university—Barnes, St. Louis Children's and St. Louis Maternity.

He was on the Cornell faculty for six years. Born in Chicago 38 years ago, he received his bachelor's degree from Ohio State University in 1921, a master of science degree in 1927 from the same university and a medical degree there the following year.

He became a fellow in pathology at Western Reserve University and obtained a Ph. D. degree there in 1930. He taught bacteriology and pathology there and at Ohio State. As a National Reserve Council fellow, he studied in Vienna in 1931 and 1932.

His special field of investigation is diseases of the kidney and prostate gland. He will join the faculty in the fall.

Dr. Deutsch will be in the newly created department of neuropsychiatry, opened last fall for the study of mental and nervous diseases. His specialty, psychosomatic medicine, is one of the most recent developments in medical practice and research. He is considered one of the pioneers in the development of the specialty at the University of Vienna. A former student of Sigmund Freud, he taught at the university from 1919 to 1935. In that year he left voluntarily for the United States.

During the last three years he has been a research fellow at Harvard University and taught at two Boston hospitals. He will join the faculty here next fall.

Dr. Rose's advancement to head of the division of genito-urinary surgery was in recognition of his development of instruments and technique which improved diagnosis and treatment, Chancellor Throop said.

STATE SUES UNION ELECTRIC FOR ST. CHARLES BRIDGE FEE

Says Utility Owes $1600 for Carrying Current Across Span for Two Years.

Suit for $1600 was filed against the Union Electric Co. of Missouri by the State Highway Commission yesterday at Clayton. The suit alleges that amount of money is owed by the utility for carrying current over its wires on the St. Charles bridge for two years.

A contract which Union Electric made with the St. Louis & St. Charles Bridge Co. for stringing its wires over the bridge was assigned to the Highway Department in December, 1931, when the bridge was taken over by the State. The contract provided the utility was to pay $800 a year in advance. The Highway Department alleges no payment has been made since Jan. 1, 1938.

George K. Miltenberger, a vice-president of Union Electric, said he understood a difference of opinion had arisen as to whether the bridge was to be considered different from any part of the highway. He said the utility had the privilege, with certain limitations, of extending its lines along State highways without cost and regarded the bridge as a link in the highway.

DR. LEX GLIN M'CUTCHEN DIES AFTER HEART ATTACK

Radiologist at Firmin Desloge Hospital Stricken on Entering His Auto.

Dr. Lex Glin McCutchen, radiologist at Firmin Desloge Hospital, died of a heart attack yesterday at the hospital. He collapsed at 1:30 p. m. as he was entering his automobile and was taken back in to the hospital by another physician who saw him fall. He died three hours later.

He was 45 years old and lived at 9801 Conway road, St. Louis County. Following his graduation from St. Louis University School of Medicine, he began teaching radiology there.

In November, 1938, he won a verdict for $10,000 from the Christian Hospital Corporation for breach of contract under which he was hired as director of the hospital's X-ray department in 1925. He contended the corporation violated the contract by dismissing him in 1935 without having retired $5000 in Christian Hospital bonds held by him. He was also formerly head of the X-ray department at St. Louis County Hospital.

Surviving are his wife and two daughters, Miss Virginia Margaret and Miss Glenda Fay McCutchen.

FRANCO'S TROOPS OCCUPY LAST OF SPAIN'S CAPITALS

Murcia and Almeria, Which Gave Up After Madrid Surrendered, Are Taken Over.

MADRID, April 1 (AP).—The military occupation of the former Spanish Republican zone was completed today as Nationalist authorities continued to push reconstruction measures.

The last two provincial capitals to be occupied were Murcia and Almeria, which gave up the day after Madrid's surrender—and invited Nationalist Generalissimo Francisco Franco to take over.

One of Franco's main problems involved unemployment and public order, which could be aggravated by mass discharges of soldiers.

Hence, informed sources said, the Generalissimo might keep his army of more than 1,000,000 probably until the end of the year, when the soldiers would be released gradually as agriculture and industry could absorb them.

Madrid authorities, having eased the food shortage to some extent, sent out a call for medicines. They feared epidemics, for stocks of ordinary remedies like iodine, alcohol, salves and tonics and bandages and tape were exhausted long ago.

"Physicians were unable to treat a scurvy-like skin disease, resulting from lack of fresh fruits and vegetables, which is widely prevalent.

Another problem for which municipal officials saw no immediate solution was housing. Every highway from the west and north brought a flood of persons who had escaped to Nationalist Spain. Resumption of passenger train service soon was expected to increase the influx.

Many found their houses and apartments either destroyed or occupied by refugees who entered the city when Franco's lines tightened in October, 1936. Republican authorities then lodged them in abandoned residences.

Hotels are filled to capacity. In many cases hotel beds had been taken for hospitals.

Some cafes reopened last night Restaurants were ready to begin serving meals again.

The reconsecration of the city's 200 churches was started. Some had served as Republican munitions depots during the 32-month civil war.

TAMPICO, Mexico, April 1 (AP). —Five men left the yacht Vita, which docked here yesterday, and boarded a special car of the train to San Luis Potosi last night. It connects with the Laredo-Mexico City train.

The Federal Immigration Department said there was no foundation to a report by the newspaper El Mundo that Juan Negrin, former Spanish Premier, and Julio Alvarez del Vayo, former Foreign Minister, were among the five.

The statement said the yacht carried a group of prominent Spaniards touring American countries to study the possibility of settlements.

SENATE GROUP EXPECTED TO BEAT RELIEF FUND RISE

Chairman Adams Makes Prediction After Hearing on $100,000,000 Item Passed by House.

WASHINGTON, April 1 (AP).—Chairman Adams (Dem.), Colorado, predicted today that a Senate appropriations subcommittee would reject efforts to raise the $100,000,000 relief appropriation to the $150,000,000 figure recommended by President Roosevelt.

The subcommittee quickly concluded hearings on the House-approved relief measure today and arranged to vote on it Monday.

F. C. Harrington, WPA administrator, testified in support of a $150,000,000 allotment at today's hearing.

New Deal Senators forecast a determined effort to restore the $50,000,000 which the House cut yesterday.

Some economy advocates said, however, that the $100,000,000 which the House voted, 290 to 110, was acceptable to them.

Acting swiftly after the House voted, the WPA modified by 200,000 last night its order that 400,000 persons be dropped from relief rolls next week.

Col. Harrington said this meant employment for 2,800,000 persons during April, as compared with 3,000,000 in March. Even if $150,000,000 had been appropriated, he added, the work relief agency would have reduced its rolls by 100,000 in April.

LEGION UNABLE TO START CHARITY PROJECT ON TIME

Failure to Obtain Necessary Permit Cause; Objection by One Group.

American Legion Employment Industries, recently organized project to give employment to veterans, postponed starting activities planned for today because it had failed to obtain the necessary permit from the City Charities Solicitation Commission.

An application was filed last Wednesday, but at the commission's meeting the following day it was pointed out that an ordinance prohibited solicitation sooner than 20 days after approval. Director of Public Welfare Joseph M. Darst, chairman, said the Rev. James P. Johnston, director of the Father Tim Dempsey Charities, had asked the commission to consider the effect on other organizations if a permit were granted.

The new organization, which has established headquarters in a four-story building at 111 South Main street, plans to collect clothing, furniture and other discarded articles and employ veterans at $2 a day to repair and sell them. Charles T. Burgess is executive chairman for the new charity.

MAPLEWOOD CASH BALANCE IS $46,000, AUDIT SHOWS

Was Put at $33,000 by City Clerk Hogan, Who Is Candidate for Mayor.

An audit of Maplewood funds, ordered by the City Council at a noisy meeting Thursday night, shows the present cash balance is $46,888, it was announced today. City Clerk John J. Hogan, a candidate for Mayor in the election next Tuesday, had published an advertisement saying the city's cash balance was $33,181 on March 17.

In the advertisement charging mismanagement of city funds, Hogan said the city had $61,774 in cash two years ago. Questioned about the figures by a Post-Dispatch reporter, he said that in obtaining the 1937 figure he did not subtract encumbrances against the city funds.

It is set forth in the audit that the cash balance on March 31, 1937, was $48,845. Hogan is opposing Frank L. Martini, the incumbent, in the mayoralty race.

LAWYER DENIED REHEARING OF HIS APPEAL OVER FEE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 1. — The Missouri Supreme Court overruled today a motion by Charles P. Noell, St. Louis attorney, for rehearing of an appeal in which the court ruled last Feb. 8 that Noell was not entitled to collect a fee from a former client in a personal injury damage suit settled for the client by another attorney in 1936 after Noell had been suspended from the practice of law.

The damage suit was that of George Kimmie against the Terminal Railroad Association of St. Louis, which was settled for $15,000 after two jury verdicts, one for $20,000 and the other for $35,000, had been reversed by the Supreme Court for trial errors.

Noell, who had represented Kimmie in the two trials, was suspended from the practice of law by the St. Louis Court of Appeals for two years from June 30, 1936, for alleged solicitation of damage suit cases.

RUSSIAN DUO-PIANISTS PLAY AT THE PRINCIPIA

Vitya Vronsky and Victor Babin Give Technically Brilliant Performance.

Vitya Vronsky and Victor Babin, young Russian duo-pianists, made their first St. Louis appearance at Howard Hall, The Principia, last night and thoroughly pleased a near-capacity audience with their glittering, incisive execution.

Technically, they were a joy. The control and balance of their teamwork was so concise, their dynamics so polished and styles so confluent that they constantly achieved the flowing line of a single instrument. The net emotional effect was somewhat less satisfying. They might have forsaken their crisp poise long enough in the Mozart Sonata in D to soar a bit in the lovely slow movement; and the brakes could have been applied with advantage in the Rachmaninoff Fantasia, Opus 5, which was plumbed to the depths of its turgid, sentimental Russianness and topped off with a banging finale that, one felt sure, moved the building more than the audience.

However, the artists achieved genuine excitement, gaudy and barbaric, in Mr. Babin's arrangement of Borodin's Polovtsian Dances. Milhaud's "Scaramouche," with its hard, modern brilliancy, also proved an excellent vehicle for their style. For the balance of the scheduled program, there were Brahms' five waltzes, Opus 39, Arensky's "Silhouette," an etude by Babin and the cradle song from Rimsky-Korsakoff's opera, "Sadko." There were four encores, including Debussy's "Egyptian Epigraph."

The pianists, who are, incidentally, married to each other, will repeat the concert tonight at the Principia campus at Elsah, Ill.

STOCK LIST RALLIES, DIPS THEN CLOSES ON ADVANCE

Final Gains Run to 2 or More Points for Favorites but There Are as Many Losers of as Much—Fast Trading Marks Session.

NEW YORK, April 1 (AP).—In one of the fastest Saturday sessions in more than a year, the stock market today rallied and relapsed at frequent intervals but managed to end on a rising note.

The European scene held Wall street's attention to the virtual exclusion of domestic business and political happenings. Many traders were said to have stepped in on the buying side at the opening on the theory the sharp declines of the past two days called for a "correction" no matter what transpires overseas.

The rapid churning of the list put the ticker tape several minutes behind floor dealings during almost the entire first hour. There was a slow-down in the final period as Hitler started his speech at Wilhelmshaven. A revival of bidding at the last resulted in a substantial comeback for numerous issues that had undergone pressure after the opening. Transfers for the two hours totaled 1,558,430 shares.

Final Prices Mixed.

Final gains ran to 2 or more points for favorites, but there were a number of losers of as much.

The financial district seemed to derive some courage from the belief that the stronger stand of the Anglo-French entente might avert war. In addition indications of calm over the week end were seen in the fact Prime Minister Chamberlain left London for his country home, Polish Foreign Minister Josef Beck had not seen fit to postpone his trip to London tomorrow, and Mussolini's latest utterances were viewed as relatively moderate.

In a ragged curb market gains of fractions to over a point were posted by Lake Shore, Electric Bond and Share and American Gas and Electric. Lockheed and American Cyanamid "B" dropped back.

CORPORATE, GOVERNMENT BONDS IN LOWER GROUP

NEW YORK, April 1 (AP).—The bond market found the upgrade a tough one today. Even United States Government loans—recently a tower of strength when sellers hit other sections of the list—dropped back.

Comparatively light offerings in the Government section accounted for losses running up to 10-32ds of a point as the short session got well into the final hour.

A wide loser elsewhere was Erie convertible 4s of '53 "A", off more than three points. Declines of fractions to over a point were posted by loans of Firestone Tire & Rubber, Alleghany, Chesapeake & Ohio, Illinois Central, General Steel Castings and Columbia Gas & Electric.

Moving ahead fractionally were Baltimore & Ohio convertible 4½s, St. Paul 5s, Delaware & Hudson refunding 4s, International Hydro Electric 6s and Southern Railway 4s.

STIX BAER & FULLER 1938 NET $322,656

Income for Fiscal Year Ended January 31 Equal to 66 Cents a Share.

Stix, Baer & Fuller Co. in its annual report reveals net earnings for the fiscal year ended Jan. 31, of $322,656 after all charges and expenses, provision for taxes and reserves. The earnings were equivalent to 66 cents a share on the 287,735 common shares outstanding at the end of the fiscal year after provision of $130,901 for dividends on the outstanding cumulative preferred stock. Earnings in the preceding year were $501,504, or $1.29 a common share on approximately the sam. number of shares outstanding.

Julius A. Baer, chairman of board, pointed out that while dividends to stockholders to the amount of $202,835 were paid, taxes, including local, State and Federal Government, including Social Security taxes approximating $303,859, were paid, in amount equal to $1.05 a share on the common stock.

The bank loan of $1,250,000, made in 1936, for the purpose of refunding first mortgage bonds then out against the company's store building, has been reduced to $525,000, the report showed. The balance of the notes mature in two installments, one of $260,000 on April 1, 1940, and the other of $265,000 on April 1, 1941. The directors have decided to pay the 1940 installment on April 1 of this year, it was stated.

Current liabilities were $781,088, including accounts payable, $489,327; sundry liabilities and accrued expenses, $155,277; provision for income and Social Security taxes, $80,647, and accrued salaries and wages, $55,834.

COTTON MARKET CLOSES 2 TO 6 POINTS LOWER

NEW YORK, April 1 (AP).—Selling by Bombay brokers and foreign interests carried cotton futures to net declines of 2 to 6 points today. Contracts were absorbed by New Orleans, trade houses and local professionals. Commission house and Wall street selling stopped a mid-morning rally.

Prices recovered a few points only to fall back to opening levels after midmorning. Pressure from Bombay was absorbed in part by local professionals. Mill interests were credited with buying nearby positions. July sold at 7.85, in late trading when prices were 2 to 5 net lower.

WHEAT AND CORN PRICES LOWER IN FINAL TRADE

CHICAGO, April 1 (AP).—Wheat prices dipped as much as ¾ cent a bushel at times today, both May and July falling to 67½ cents.

At that level, however, the market received buying support and prices advanced to near yesterday's close. Uncertainty over the European political situation was partly offset by favorable reports for the domestic winter wheat crop. Unsettled weather was predicted for parts of the belt.

Liverpool wheat, reflecting yesterday's firmness in North American markets, scarcity of Australian offers and a stronger Argentine market, closed ½@⅝c up, or slightly better than expected. Rotterdam closed ⅜@¾ lower. Corn also held about steady.

Oats and rye trade was very light and prices held about steady.

Lard prices were unchanged to slightly lower.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, April 1.—In the cash grain section of the market today wheat was steady and corn ¼c higher.

Sales made on the floor of the exchange were as follows:

Corn—No. 2 yellow corn 49c.

Oats—Red oats 32c.

Liverpool closed ⅜@½d lower after opening ½d up.

Winnipeg wheat began unchanged and later was unchanged to ¼c higher. The close was ⅛@⅜c lower.

Argentine wheat and corn opened unchanged. Wheat closed unchanged to ⅜c higher and corn ⅛@¼c lower.

WHEAT AND CORN PRICES LOWER IN FINAL TRADE

CHICAGO, April 1 (AP).—Wheat prices dipped as much as ¾ cent a bushel at times today, both May and July falling to 67⅛ cents.

At that level, however, the market received buying support and prices advanced to near yesterday's close. Uncertainty over the European political situation was partly offset by favorable reports for the domestic winter wheat crop. Unsettled weather was predicted for parts of the belt.

Liverpool wheat, reflecting yesterday's firmness in North American markets, scarcity of Australian offers and a stronger Argentine market, closed ⅛ @ ⅝d up, or slightly better than expected. Rotterdam closed ⅜ @ ¾ lower. Corn also was about steady.

Oats and rye trade was very light and prices held about steady.

Lard prices were unchanged to slightly lower.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, April 1.—In the cash grain section of the market today wheat was steady and corn ¼c higher.

Sales made on the floor of the exchange were as follows:

Corn—No. 2 yellow corn 49c.

Oats—Red oats 32c.

Liverpool closed ⅜ @ ½d lower after opening ½d up.

Winnipeg wheat began unchanged and later was unchanged to ¼c higher. The close was ⅛ @ ⅜c lower.

Argentine wheat and corn opened unchanged. Wheat closed unchanged to ⅝c higher and corn ⅛ @ ¼c lower.

ALBANY, Ga., April 1. — Lon Warneke started on the hill for the Cardinals as they opposed their Albany "farm" of the Class D Georgia-Florida League here this afternoon.

Manager Ray Blades again had Jimmy Brown playing third base, with Crespi at second and Orengo at shortstop. Stu Martin played first base as Johnny Mize was given a rest, and Narron was behind the plate.

Wilshere pitched for Albany and Carmen was the receiver.

The Cardinal roster was cut down by one yesterday when Martin Marion, candidate for the shortstop post, was optioned again to Rochester of the International League. He is the fourth player sent out since the season of training began. Others were Catcher Bremer and Outfielder Epps who went to Columbus, and Hopp, ordered to Houston. There now are 29 players left on the Redbird list which means four more must go before the summer limit of 25 is enforced.

The game:

FIRST INNING—CARDINALS—Brown singled and went to second on Morris' error. Crespi popped to Leach. Slaughter flied to Lucas. Medwick double, scoring Brown. S. Martin grounded to Leach. ONE RUN.

Pirates a Veteran Club

Paul Waner, Star Right Fielder, Still Holding Out—Mueller, Obtained From Bees, to Do Bulk of Catching for Traynor.

Harold (Pie) Traynor, the easy-going manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, who recently turned "tough" when he handed Ed Brandt his unconditional release for breaking training rules, will rely on practically the same club he had in 1938 to keep the Pirates in the 1939 flag race.

At present one star of the team is still missing. He's Paul Waner, veteran outfielder, who is still holding out.

Ray Mueller, obtained in a trade with the Bees, will do the bulk of the catching, assisted by Berries and Suske, a rookie.

Traynor's pitching staff will be made up of the following: Bauers, Tobin, Blanton, Swift, Brown, Bowman, Klinger, Sewell and Heintzelman, although the Pirates' manager says he's still ready to make a trade for a man to help out the pitching staff.

TRAYNOR

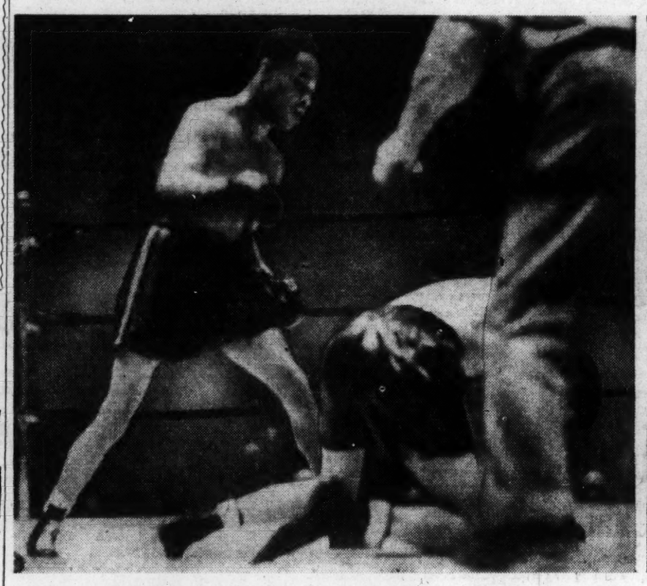

For the infield, the Pirates are well protected. There's Suhr at first, Young to second, Vaughan at short and Handley at third base. Brubacher and Juelich, a recruit from the Cardinals' Rochester "farm" will be the reserves.

Morse Is Re-Elected.

Coleman Morse was re-elected president of the Eastern Missouri Professional Golfer's Association at a meeting held last night. Benny Richter was named vice-president; Homer Herpel, secretary and Frank Fogertey, treasurer. The first monthly pro-amateur tournament will be held April 10.

Hammerin' Henry Beats Off Another Challenger —Associated Press Wirephoto.

Day Puts Up Gallant Fight But Armstrong Wins on Technical Kayo in 12th

NEW YORK, April 1 (AP).—Battered and war-worn but still all conquering, Henry Armstrong turned from the glutted domestic market and cast his eyes at England where May 22 he will display the talents that have snuffed out 45 straight opponents, the last courageous Davey Day of Chicago.

He had a right to wear it proudly. For after 11 rounds, in which he had taken command, lost it, hurt both hands and seen his early lead slip away, he gathered himself, and danced out to stop Day with a short right hook. Henry weighed 135, Day a pound more.

The punch dropped Day, by this time bewildered by the dancing doll who never stops, to the canvas. Referee Billy Cavanaugh started to count, checked himself and, as Day staggered wearily to his feet, threw an arm about the gallant Chicagoan's shoulder and walked him to his corner.

Near End of Round.

The technical knockout, which came at 2:49 of the 12th, ended one of Armstrong's toughest fights. He had punched Day around the ring in the first four rounds taking little in return when Davey suddenly started to go. The crowd of 10,028, that paid $29,008 went wild.

Day shook off Henry with jarring short uppercuts. He stabbed away with a left that opened a deep gash on the lid of Armstrong's left eye. And when Henry brought up those short left and right hooks that have made him first featherweight, then lightweight and welterweight champion, Day met him punch for punch and stood his ground.

"I hurt both hands in the fifth," said Armstrong later, "I would have finished him sooner if I hadn't. But I can't take away anything from him. Ambers was tougher but this boy is good, awfully good. A sharp hitter and he must have a heart as big as his head."

Will Meet Roderick.

Dr. Vincent Nardiollo X-rayed Henry's hands and found he had broken the index finger of his left hand, badly bruised his right. "We will put it in a cast for three weeks," said the doctor. "He will be in shape to fight Ernie Roderick in London on the 22nd."

It was Day's fight until the ninth. Then Henry, who had changed his style in the seventh by staying out of range and pecking at Day's badly swollen right eye, took charge again.

He shot away at the eye with his right, circled out of Day's vision and whacked him in the body with both hands. Day, who had taken the same punch earlier, couldn't stand it now. He had hit Armstrong with everything he had and Henry was still going.

By the 12th he was through. Armstrong followed him around the ring slamming him with both hands, his mouth open and grinning. Finally he caught Day with a hook and Davey had had enough.

You're next Mr. Roderick.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Call for Mr. Ripley!

A POP-EYED racing world is wondering what the hello Fairmount Jockey Club means by asking dates for 11 racing meets to be held in 1939. The wonder grows when you learn that the entire 11 meetings are to be confined to 59 racing days.

But the answer is quickly found by reference to Fairmount's request of last year, when the Illinois Racing Commission refused to grant a petition for meetings with Mondays out. General Manager D. C. Burnett wanted to keep the gates closed on washday, but the commission decided against it.

Fairmount now wants to open with a one-day meet on May 6—a Saturday—and start its second meeting on May 9, operating five days.

This system of five-day racing meets would continue until June 10, when the spring season would close.

The same plan, applied in the fall, would include racing from Sept. 2 to Oct. 14, each five-day meeting starting on Tuesday and ending the following Saturday.

It's just an evasion, but it may work. In any case, Fairmount will operate spring and fall meetings, their nature and duration still being in the laps of the Illinois commissioners.

He'll Make Good.

"SEE WHERE JEAN PUSIE is going to turn wrestler," remarked the Old Timer as he laid down the paper. "Don't know whether Jean can wrestle or if he can take a fall out of anything tougher than a beefsteak. But he sure is some man in a riot. And you can't beat wrestling for one-man riots."

Well, Old Timer, it looks like you've got something there. Jean was a pretty fine hockey player, although the Flyers still managed to win nearly all of their games (three of them playoffs), when Jean was out of the lineup. But on the mat he ought to measure right up with George Zaharias as a rough-house performer.

* * *

More About Pusie.

HOCKEY FANS are still wrought up over Pusie's suspension and also over this writer's comment advocating severe measures against the bellicose Flyer, who was fined heavily in Wichita for assaulting a spectator, who recently was put out for the season by President Grant for knocking down a referee and who has been in hot water at various times this year.

It is objected that hockey, being a physical contact game, explosions are likely to happen as in football, soccer and other sports, and Pusie's ebullitions were only natural. But we still believe the officials right in putting the pressure on Pusie or any player like him.

It's one thing to lose your temper when an opponent slams you illegally; it's another to assault spectators and officials. No sport can long survive liberties with decency of that sort except wrestling, which, with all due respect to the many who like it, is just exhibition stuff.

One correspondent calls attention to the fact that Dizzy Dean was allowed to get away with anything. "Torn up ball suits, intentionally missed trains, fights with teammates and newspaper men, and other offenses—walking off the mound during the game and throwing himself on the ground and crying like a spoiled child—made no difference. Still he remained the great Dizzy. Jean Pusie is just as outstanding in hockey. You want him kept out of the game, but you haven't tried to have Dizzy put out."

The difference is that Dizzy hasn't assaulted spectators, he hasn't knocked out an umpire and his offenses of an important nature all were punished severely.

Violence to spectators and officials is what we object to. The game can be kept bigger than any individual only if rules are rigidly enforced.

"Ways That Are Dark," Etc.

Of "ways that are dark and tricks that are vain," the heathen Chinee, it appears, has no monopoly. There are the wrestlers,

Pusie to Make Wrestling Debut In Match at Coliseum Next Week

Jean Baptiste Pusie, bad boy of the Flyer hockey club, is to make his St. Louis debut as a wrestler at the Coliseum Wednesday night when he is scheduled to oppose an unnamed opponent.

Pusie said he had signed a contract with Bill Schwabe, promoter, stipulating only that his opponent would not weigh more than 220 pounds. Pusie weighs about 190 pounds.

Jean plans several matches between now and June when he hopes to depart for his home near Montreal, Canada.

The Flyer defense man, who has been in trouble on innumerable occasions this season, formerly wrestled in and around Montreal, but quit the game, he told a luncheon club meeting here recently, when he would not abide by the dictates of the promoters.

Other players on the Flyers were indignant when they heard of Pusie's plans and contended he is selling the team short by going into the mat business.

"Here we have done our best to prove that hockey is a contest and he goes into a proposition about which there is suspicion," some of the Flyers declared bitterly. "He has been little good to us all season and if he does wrestle they should not permit him to play with this team again."

VICTORY IN PLAYOFFS IS ST. LOUIS' 4TH IN 12 YEARS

By W. J. McGoogan

For the fourth time in the 12 seasons professional hockey has been played in this city, the St. Louis Flyers today hold the American Hockey Association championship.

Defeating Tulsa, 3 to 1, at the Arena last night, the Flyers captured the final playoff series from the Oilers in three games out of four and everybody was happy except, possibly, the club owners, who saw the Flyer victory take from their grasp a probable fat gate for Sunday night when the fifth game, had it been needed, was to have been played.

Hockey players, however, have little interest in gate receipts. They want to win, and the Flyers left nothing undone to end the series, which they did before a crowd of 9178 paid and 944 children.

It was really a dream of a game from the Flyer followers' standpoint as it was little Cliff (Fido) Purpur, idol of the Arena fans, who put the clinching touch to a hotly contested game.

Purpur Scores for Flyers.

Purpur scored the Flyers' second goal after some 13 minutes of play in the third period, which put his team ahead, 2 to 0, and, after that, there was little to it except playing out the string. Cliff broke from the pack in Flyer territory and set sail down his right wing and scored on a fine shot.

The goal was fortunate in more ways than one because the first St. Louis tally was slightly tainted. That came after 15 minutes of the second period when Kendall, from the east boards, sent a pass to Walter Brenneman and the puck went into the Oiler net.

Goalie Bill Nutt, who did a great job for the Oilers since he was called upon to replace the injured Porky Levine, protested that the puck had gone into his net off Brenneman's skate. Nutt's protests did no good and the goal was allowed.

Brenneman, in between periods, smiled when asked about the goal, and remarked, slyly:

"It didn't go in off my skate. I got my stick on it and it hit my shoe and caromed into the net."

Flyers Add to Lead.

Anyway it was allowed but real Flyer fans were glad that Purpur's goal in the third period was scored to remove any possible taint from the victory.

Then, after Purpur scored, the Oilers attacked too strenuously which gave the Flyers another chance and Hap Harnott scored the third goal, assisted by Purpur and Hudson.

It was not until more than 17 minutes of the third period had elapsed that the Oilers were able to break through the sple..did defense of Hub Nelson. Then Sonny Wakeford counted on an assist from Les Whittles.

The victory was sweet for the St. Louis club in that it enabled the Flyers to retain the championship they won last season and further because it was scored without the assistance of their stalwart defense man, Jean Baptiste Pusie, who was suspended for the season after a fracas at Tulsa last Saturday night.

Pusie attacked Referee Stan Swain and was set down for the rest of the season by league president, William F. Grant. Grant refused to reinstate Jean yesterday

UNIVERSITY CITY FAVORED TO WIN STATE INDOOR MEET

INDIANS SEEK 10TH STRAIGHT CHAMPIONSHIP

Missouri M. A. Defends Its Honors in Class B Competition — 475 Athletes Entered in Games.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., April 1.—University City will defend the team title it has won nine years in a row and members of the high school track team will seek to retain four of the individual championships as the State high school indoor track championships are conducted today at the University of Missouri here. University City is entered in the Class A division with 11 other schools, including Clayton, Normandy, Webster Groves, Kirkwood, Blewett of St. Louis as well as St. Joseph Central, Columbia, Hannibal, Joplin and Sedalia.

The larger school Class A division will be conducted as 42 smaller Class B schools seek to dethrone Missouri Military Academy from the championship the Cadets have held two years in a row.

Except for Blewett and Clayton, the Class A entries for the most part include individuals who will compete in each of the events. University City, however, will be aided by two of the three defending champions from last year, including Henry Schlesinger, who took first in the broad jump and low hurdles to win high point honors in 1938; Ralph Blumberg, who established a new indoor record in the 60-yard dash, as well as the defending championship 880-yard relay team. The other returning champion will be Bennett of Joplin, who captured first in the pole vault a year ago.

University City High has won the Class A indoor title every year the championships have been conducted except in the opening 1930 year when St. Louis Roosevelt placed first.

Ten schools entered 111 athletes in the Class A meet.

The Class B tournament drew 364 entries from 43 schools. Missouri Military Academy from Mexico won last year and is favored to repeat.

Teams that scored more than five points last year include Marshall, Platte City, Greenwood, Ruskin, Fulton, Tilton, Clinton, John Burroughs and Louisiana.

Oilers Lost This Argument Too

Goalie Bill Nutt (No. 1) and Defenseman Burr Williams of the Tulsa club protesting to the referees that Brennemann's goal, the first scored in last night's championship match was illegal. However, it did no good and the Flyers won, 3 to 1.

Flyers Beat Tulsa, 3-1, and Retain Hockey League Title

Flyer Notes.

Fred Hergert, just recovering from a broken right arm, again got into the game for short stretches, as he did Wednesday night, and was pleased that he had a hand in his team's playoff triumph.

There were eight penalties assessed, five against the Oilers and three against the Flyers. Two of the Flyers were off the ice at the same time in the third period when both Harnott and Hudson were chased for tripping Whittles. The Flyer defense was equal to the occasion and Tulsa was unable to score.

One spectator seated in the north end of the rink brought a bugle and blew a few notes occasionally throughout the contest.

Toward the end of the third period with the Flyers leading by only one goal there was a tenseness on the part of the spectators for they knew the Flyers were only 10 minutes removed from the title and they feared the worst. Purpur's goal ended the uneasy feeling.

Just Another Victory.

There was a jam of fans trying to get into the Flyers' dressing room after the game, but the players took their victory rather calmly. There was the usual back slapping and congratulations, but most of the men seemed more interested in the fact that they had won in four games.

Pete Palangi showed something new in the way of a foul when Leo Carbol broke and started a rush for the Oiler net. Pete wanted to trip Leo but couldn't so he grabbed Carbol by the head and threw him to the ice. Pete, of course, drew a two minute penalty.

Palangio said he would undergo an operation on his right knee which was injured in the last practice before the season opened last November and handicapped him throughout the season.

What the players will get from the playoffs is still problematical. All of the playoff money is put into a pool and distributed after expenses are paid. The winners get the lion's share. Also the Flyers were presented with $25 each by The Arena after last night's game.

The Oilers claimed a goal in the third period, but Goal Judge Oscar Blankenmeister merely looked at them coldly and the argument soon died.

Nutt had 51 stops in the goal to 34 for Nelson. Nutt has had no fewer than 40 stops since he took over the goal tending job for Tulsa.

Most of the Flyers who live out of town will remain over until Monday or Tuesday before departing for their homes.

Shaw Park Wins Water Polo Game

In a well-played contest at the Downtown "Y" pool last night, the girls' water polo team of Shaw Park, Clayton, defeated the Y. W. C. A. girls by a score of 5 to 1.

Other games are planned but dates have not yet been set.

Handball Finals Today.

Earl Srenco will deefnd his Ozark A. A. U. singles handball championship against Bill Littman at the Downtown Y this afternoon. In the doubles Earl and Harold Srenco meet Simon Wolff and Larry Meisel.

A. B. C. EVENT TO BE AWARDED ON ZONE BASIS

CLEVELAND, April 1 (AP).—The prize melon of the sporting world, the annual American Bowling Congress which brings an estimated $1,000,000 to the host city, hereafter will be located on a zone basis.

The Congress adopted yesterday a resolution intended to keep the tenpin classic from being held in one zone twice in succession. It also provides that the event return at least every other year to the central district, agreed center of the nation's bowling population. The zones are designated as Eastern, Central, Mississippi and Western.

Detroit won over St. Paul by a vote of 328 to 285 to be named the 1940 host city.

Elected vice-presidents were: Neil C. King, Indianapolis; George W. Klockson, Dayton, O.; John L. Rounds, St. Paul, Minn.; Martin G. Unmacht, Debuque, Ia.; Jerry C. Ameling, St. Louis, Mo.; Elmer W. Irwin, San Francisco; Gerhard S. Germann, Utica, N. Y., and William N. Blau, Madison, Wis. All except Blau had been vice-presidents previously.

E. H. Baumgarten, of Milwaukee, Wis., was re-elected secretary.

Bids were received from St. Louis and Indianapolis for the 1941 tournament, from Philadelphia for 1942, from Pittsburgh for 1943, and from Houston, Tex., for 1946.

Joe Hunter and Matt Kowalski, of Chicago, rolled into a tie for second place in the doubles yesterday with 1307. Hunter had 691 and Kowalski 616. S. Shelley and L. Schmidt, of Wooster, O., continued to lead the division with 1332 and Vic Maurer and Alex Graham, of New Philadelphia, O., were tied with the Chicagoans.

NEW YORK A. C. SWIMMERS SET RELAY RECORD

COLUMBUS, O., April 1 (AP).—The New York Athletic Club's relay team set a world record of 3:31.3 for the 400-yard free-style event last night in the National A. A. U. swimming championships, giving the Gothamites a three-point lead for the team championship now held by Ohio State University.

The New York A. C. took a tenth of a second off the 3:31.4 world mark set in 1937 by the University of Michigan, and beat Yale University's freshmen by five yards. The Yale Varsity was third, and Ohio State's defending champs fourth.

The relay victory, in which Tom McDermott, Jim Reilly, Walter Spence and Peter Fick represented the New York A. C., gave that club 20 points for the first seven events, three ahead of Ohio State. The winning team split the world record about equally. Fick paced the quartet with a 51.1 performance, Spence's time was 52.2, Reilly made his 100 yards in 53.2, and McDermott in 54.5.

Ohio State, in losing the relay crown, was the second defending champion deposed. In the 220-yard free style, Jack Medica of the New York A. C. splashed to victory in 2:12.7, defeating the defending title-holder, Ralph Flanagan of Austin, Tex.

R. R. Hough of Princeton, national intercollegiate champion and holder of the world's 200-yard breast-stroke record, nosed out Johnny Higgins of Ohio State, 1937 champion, for the 220-yard breast-stroke title. Jack Kasley of Michigan, world record holder and defending champion, did not compete. Hough was 1.1 seconds off the world record pace at 2:39.5.

for example. For ways that seem goofy, consider the wrestler. You can't guess him. His scenario writers are too clever.

Take the case of the recent quadruple championship play, Casey to Westenberg to Sonnenberg to Casey. It happened in Boston. Even the wrestling fans were exclaiming, "What the"—— etc.

Why let a booking agent beat "Champion" Casey; Sonnenberg, a washed-up headliner several years ago, beat the booking agent, and then have Casey complete the mysterious circle by flopping Sonnenberg?

The answer is not in Boston. It may be in St. Louis, where, following Casey's defeat in Boston, the "Crusher" lost to Lou Thesz, claimant of the National Wrestling Association's title.

Had Casey come into St. Louis with the title, Thesz would have won whatever claims the "Crusher" had, and Mr. Bowser's syndicate would have been without power to restore it.

Having lost to Westenberg, Casey, however, had nothing to lose here. And, returning East, by beating Sonnenberg he was enabled to regain the status he enjoyed prior to his arrangement to come West.

CAMBRIDGE IS A WINNER OVER OXFORD'S CREW

LONDON, April 1 (AP). — Cambridge won the ninety-first annual Thames River four-mile boat race against Oxford University today by the official distance of four lengths.

Oxford was coxswained by the 77-pound Bart Massey—smallest in many years. The water was smooth. There was little wind. The Oxford crew had been favored, 7 to 4, in betting.

Cambridge took a quarter-length lead at the end of the first 200 yards, counting 34 strokes, and at the one-mile mark led by nearly two lengths. Cambridge then dropped the beat to 32 and later to 30.

At about two and a half miles, Cambridge, rowing strongly, increased the lead to three lengths, an advantage that was kept as the last mile was entered.

The Flyers won from the Ritz A. C., 1 to 0, yesterday to win the championship of the Neighborhood House Hoc-Soc League.

BURKE LEADING IN 'MASTERS' AT 69; SNEAD NEXT

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 1 (AP).—It's going clear back to 1931 since Billie Burke wrote his chapter in golfing history. That was the year Billie and George Von Elm threatened to spend the rest of the season battling each other for the United States open title. Billie finally won it on the seventy-second extra hole.

The same Billie Burke was leading the Augusta national "masters" tournament when they tee'd off today in the second 18-hole round. He shot a 69 in yesterday's opening round, much to the surprise of everybody. Sam Snead with a 70 and Henry Picard, Byron Nelson and Tommy Armour, each with a 71, were closest to him.

Burke hasn't done much of importance since he won the open eight years ago. He took to teaching and has stayed at it, passing up the winter "money trial" without feeling he was missing anything. But every now and then he has come out to play in some tournament, and almost invariably he has done all right.

While Burke was taking the lead and Bobby Jones, the popular host was blowing himself to a large 76 the formidable "Big Four" was wheeling its howitzers up. This group is composed of Sam Snead, Byron Nelson, Ralph Guldahl and Ralph Picard, and you couldn't get better than even money today that one of them wouldn't win this event.

"Don't kid me," said the man who makes the big book on the tournament. "I like Burke and I would love to see him win, because there's practically nothing bet on him. But I know those four other guys."

Guldahl was in a group of seven who shot 72 in the first round. With him were Dick Metz, Lawson Little, Craig Wood, Jimmy Demaret, Tony Penna, and Ky Laffoon. All these shot even par.

Jones and Walter Hagen were in a tie with six others at 76, which meant they had blown themselves out of the tournament. Bobby did all right going out in front of the day's big gallery, holing a couple of long putts for a 36, but he got all mixed up with the course coming back. He had mud on his sleeves when he came to the clubhouse later.

"I'll swear I don't know why I can't putt any more," he said. "I'm playing about as good as I ever did up to the green, but I get the jitters when I try to putt. I try to do it exactly like I used to, I hold the club the same way and everything, but I can't knock the ball in the hole any more."

Cunningham Wins In Portland Mile

PORTLAND, Ore., April 1 (AP).—Glenn Cunningham, Kansas track perennial, led a brilliant field of milers to the tape in the Cunningham mile at the Hill Relay Carnival last night, finishing in 4 minutes, 24.4 seconds.

Don Lash, Indiana, trailed Cunningham by about 10 paces after the Kansan had stood off his last lap challenge. John Borican, the New Jersey Negro, was third. Borican, whose specialty is the half mile, challenged Cunningham on the seventh lap of the 12-lap track but wilted in the driving finish.

Earle Meadows, Southern California pole vaulter, set a meet record by clearing the bar at 14 feet 4 inches to beat out George Varoff, Oregon U., who vaulted 14 feet.

Lash's efforts to overtake Cunningham told on him later when the Don Lash two-mile event was held and the Indianan finished third. The two-mile was won by Tom Deckard, also of Indiana, in 9:33, a new meet record. Dixon Garner of Washington State was second.

SCOVILLE, REISELT EACH WIN TWICE IN THREE-CUSHION EVENT

Reiselt won, 50 to 48, in 54 innings in the afternoon and followed up at night with a 50-to-39 victory in 41 innings.

At Chicago—Allenn Hall defeated Clarence Jackson, 50-36, in 42 innings and 50-27 in 56 innings.

GREVE REPEATS DICKMANNISM IS CAMPAIGN ISSUE

AGAIN PUTS QUESTION ON GAS RATE CASE

He Charges Dickmann Has Claimed Credit for Work of Nolte in Handling City's Fiscal Affairs.

"Dickmannism" is the issue in the aldermanic campaign, although Mayor Dickmann is not a candidate in Tuesday's election, Clifford Greve, Republican nominee for president of the Board of Aldermen, asserted last night at a meeting at Kulage's Hall, Warne and Kossuth avenues.

Greve said he had been calling for William L. Mason, Democratic incumbent as aldermanic president, to make a public statement in the campaign and that his "opponent" took the rostrum Thursday night, but it was "Mayor Barney Dickmann, the machine boss, and not Mason, the nominal but inactive head of the Board of Aldermen." The Mayor, in his speech, appeared figuratively in the capacity of aldermanic president, Greve declared.

Two Questions for Democrats.

Questions for the Democrats about the city's attempted settlement of the Laclede Gas Light Co. rate case and the collection of funds from city employes were repeated by Greve. He said the Mayor had claimed credit for the fine work of Comptroller Nolte, a Republican, in handling city fiscal affairs, including the retirement of $3,094,000 in bonds in the last five years.

"No Barney," said Greve; "it won't do. All you do when you appear is reaffirm the people in the conviction that Nolte is a great Comptroller and Mason is a rubber stamp."

Greve said once more that, if elected, he would follow Nolte in fiscal policies.

Evers Makes Appeal for Votes.

E. E. Evers, Republican nominee for Twenty-second Ward Alderman, appealed to independent voters and Democrats not in sympathy with the Dickmann machine to support the Republican ticket in a crusade against political evils which, he said, threatened St. Louis with a situation as vicious and corrupt as that in Kansas City.

"I sincerely believe Barney Dickmann is as ambitious as Tom Pendergast," said Evers. "I shudder to think of the consequences of the continued success of Dickmann and am horrified at the thought of two political organizations in Missouri instead of one, preying upon the people of St. Louis and the entire State."

Time and political vicissitudes have removed most of the old, discredited Republican leaders, and the Republican aldermanic nominees, with one exception, are on the ballot for the first time, Evers said. He added: "There is not one Old Guard on the ticket. Our party is cleansed of Old Guardism. We are revitalized and rededicated for public service."

Labor Opposes Bar on Liquor 'Ads.'

WASHINGTON, April 1 (AP).—Labor union spokesmen joined representatives of the brewing and distilling industries yesterday in voicing opposition to legislation which would prohit radio advertising of alcoholic beverages. Ira N. Ornburn, secretary-treasurer of the Union Label Trade Department of the American Federation of Labor, told a Senate subcommittee the measure was "a direct attack on American labor."

BURKE LEADING IN 'MASTERS' AT 69; SNEAD NEXT

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 1 (AP).—It's going clear back to 1931 since Billie Burke wrote his chapter in golfing history. That was the year Billie and George Von Elm threatened to spend the rest of the season battling each other for the United States open title. Billie finally won it on the seventy-second extra hole.

The same Billie Burke was leading the Augusta national "masters" tournament when they tee'd off today in the second 18-hole round. He shot a 69 in yesterday's opening round, much to the surprise of everybody. Sam Snead with a 70, and Henry Picard, Byron Nelson and Tommy Armour, each with a 71, were closest to him.

Burke hasn't done much of importance since he won the open eight years ago. He took to teaching and has stayed at it, passing up the winter "money trial" without feeling he was missing anything. But every now and then he has come out to play in some tournament, and almost invariably he has done all right.

While Burke was taking the lead and Bobby Jones, the popular host was blowing himself to a large 76, the formidable "Big Four" was wheeling its howitzers up. This group is composed of Sam Snead, Byron Nelson, Ralph Guldahl and Ralph Picard, and you couldn't get better than even money today that one of them wouldn't win this event.

"Don't kid me," said the man who makes the big book on the tournament. "I like Burke and I would love to see him win, because there's practically nothing bet on him. But I know those four other guys."

Guldahl was in a group of seven who shot 72 in the first round. With him were Dick Metz, Lawson Little, Craig Wood, Jimmy Demaret, Tony Penna, and Ky Laffoon. All these shot even par.

Jones and Walter Hagen were in a tie with six others at 76, which meant they had blown themselves out of the tournament. Bobby did all right going out in front of the day's big gallery, holing a couple of long putts for a 36, but he got all mixed up with the course coming back. He had mud on his sleeves when he came to the clubhouse later.

"I'll swear I don't know why I can't putt any more," he said. "I'm playing about as good as I ever did up to the green, but I get the jitters when I try to putt. I try to do it exactly like I used to, I hold the club the same way and everything, but I can't knock the ball in the hole any more."

Cunningham Wins In Portland Mile

PORTLAND, Ore., April 1 (AP)—Glenn Cunningham, Kansas track perennial, led a brilliant field of milers to the tape in the Cunningham mile at the Hill Relay Carnival last night, finishing in 4 minutes, 24.4 seconds.

Don Lash, Indiana, trailed Cunningham by about 10 paces after the Kansan had stood off his last-lap challenge. John Borican, the New Jersey Negro, was third. Borican, whose specialty is the half mile, challenged Cunningham on the seventh lap of the 12-lap track but wilted in the driving finish.

Earle Meadows, Southern California pole vaulter, set a meet record by clearing the bar at 14 feet 4 inches to beat out George Varoff, Oregon U., who vaulted 14 feet.

Lash's efforts to overtake Cunningham told on him later when the Don Lash two-mile event was held and the Indianan finished third. The two-mile was won by Tom Deckard, also of Indiana, in 9:33, a new meet record. Dixon Garner of Washington State was second.

SCOVILLE, REISELT EACH WIN TWICE IN THREE-CUSHION EVENT

Reiselt won, 50 to 48, in 54 innings in the afternoon and followed up at night with a 50-to-39 victory in 41 innings.

Other results yesterday:

At Chicago—Allenn Hall defeated Clarence Jackson, 50-36, in 42 innings and 50-27 in 56 innings.

At Cleveland—Frank Scoville defeated Charles McCourt, 50-34, in 52 innings and 50-38 in 56 innings.

GREVE REPEATS DICKMANNISM IS CAMPAIGN ISSUE

AGAIN PUTS QUESTION ON GAS RATE CASE

He Charges Dickmann Has Claimed Credit for Work of Nolte in Handling City's Fiscal Affairs.

"Dickmannism" is the issue in the aldermanic campaign, although Mayor Dickmann is not a candidate in Tuesday's election, Clifford Greve, Republican nominee for president of the Board of Aldermen, asserted last night at a meeting at Kulage's Hall, Warne and Kossuth avenues.

Greve said he had been calling for William L. Mason, Democratic incumbent as aldermanic president, to make a public statement in the campaign and that his "opponent" took the rostrum Thursday night, but it was "Mayor Barney Dickmann, the machine boss, and not Mason, the nominal but inactive head of the Board of Aldermen." The Mayor, in his speech, appeared figuratively in the capacity of aldermanic president, Greve declared.

Two Questions for Democrats.

Questions for the Democrats about the city's attempted settlement of the Laclede Gas Light Co. rate case and the collection of funds from city employes were repeated by Greve. He said the Mayor had claimed credit for the fine work of Comptroller Nolte, a Republican, in handling city fiscal affairs, including the retirement of $3,094,000 in bonds in the last five years.

"No Barney," said Greve; "it won't do. All you do when you appear is reaffirm the people in the conviction that Nolte is a great Comptroller and Mason is a rubber stamp."

Greve said once more that, if elected, he would follow Nolte in fiscal policies.

Evers Makes Appeal for Votes.

E. E. Evers, Republican nominee for Twenty-second Ward Alderman, appealed to independent voters and Democrats not in sympathy with the Dickmann machine to support the Republican ticket in a crusade against political evils which, he said, threatened St. Louis with a situation as vicious and corrupt as that in Kansas City.

"I sincerely believe Barney Dickmann is as ambitious as Tom Pendergast," said Evers. "I shudder to think of the consequences of the continued success of Dickmann and am horrified at the thought of two political organizations in Missouri instead of one, preying upon the people of St. Louis and the entire State."

Time and political vicissitudes have removed most of the old, discredited Republican leaders, and the Republican aldermanic nominees, with one exception, are on the ballot for the first time, Evers said. He added: "There is not one Old Guard on the ticket. Our party is cleansed of Old Guardism. We are revitalized and rededicated for public service."

Labor Opposes Bar on Liquor 'Ads.'

WASHINGTON, April 1 (AP).—Labor union spokesmen joined representatives of the brewing and distilling industries yesterday in voicing opposition to legislation which would prohit radio advertising of alcoholic beverages. Ira N. Ornburn, secretary-treasurer of the Union Label Trade Department of the American Federation of Labor, told a Senate subcommittee the measure was "a direct attack on American labor."

Cardinal Dead

DONATO SBARRETTI

CARDINAL SBARRETTI FOUND DEAD IN BED IN VATICAN CITY

VATICAN CITY, April 1 (AP).—Donato Cardinal Sbarretti was found dead in bed today by a servant who went to awaken him. He was 82 years old.

Doctors said the Cardinal died of a heart attack. Pope Pius, immediately informed, expressed great sorrow.

Cardinal Sbarretti died in his apartment in headquarters of the Congregation of the Holy Office of which he was secretary. He was vice dean of the College of Cardinals.

The prelate had spent many years in Washington, Havana and Canada. He was born in Montefranco, Umbria, Italy.

In 1892 he was appointed auditor of the Apostolic delegation in Washington. In this capacity he was in constant relations with the American Government during the delicate negotiations at the close of the Spanish war. In recognition of his work in Washington, Pope Leo named him Bishop of Havana, Cuba, Jan. 9, 1900. From Havana he was sent as Apostolic delegate to Canada, where he remained 10 years.

DEPUTY CONSTABLE ONCE DISMISSED IS REINSTATED

Modesto Gentilini Has Earned "Another Chance" Promised Him, Superior Says.

Deputy Constable Modesto Gentilini, dismissed March 20, on protest of Prosecuting Attorney Stanley Wallach that Gentilini had been arrested 11 times for traffic law violations, has been reinstated, Constable Tom Florence of Jefferson Township announced yesterday.

Florence said that in revoking the commission he promised the deputy "another chance" if he earned it. The Constable added that Gentilini had been fined only once, $5, and that he considered traffic arrests without conviction hardly significant.

A revolver in Gentilini's possession two months ago, when he was arrested for carrying a concealed weapon, was identified as one taken from a jewelry store of Theodore Gerlach in a $6500 robbery, in 1933. Gentilini at that time told police he had purchased the revolver 12 years ago in Texas and that it could not have been part of the loot obtained in the jewelry robbery. Later however, Gentilini told police he had purchased the weapon from John Schmidt, St. Charles County farmer. Schmidt confessed the robbery and named three others as his accomplices. The concealed weapon charge against Gentilini was dismissed on premilinary hearing.

Florence said he thought Gentilini had earned the other chance promised him by his part in solution of the Gerlach robbery.

DIVORCE OBTAINED DURING WIFE'S ABSENCE SET ASIDE

Mrs. W. J. Duvall Alleges Husband, Who Charged Desertion, Sent Her to California.

A divorce obtained Feb. 20 by William J. Duvall, 60-year-old street car repair man, was set aside yesterday by Circuit Judge Eugene L. Padberg after Mrs. Duvall, appearing in court with a black eye, charged her husband had obtained the divorce by default through false representations.

His petition, alleging general indignities, said she had deserted him last August and could not be personally served since she was not in the State and her whereabouts were unknown to him. However, Mrs. Duvall told the Court, her husband had sent her to California to visit their three grown children on the date of the alleged desertion and that he knew where she was.

Mrs. Duvall's eye was blackened in a fight with her sister-in-law, Mrs. Clara Brewer, probation officers said. Mrs. Duvall went to the Brewer home at 4226A West Easton avenue to leave word for her former husband to appear in Circuit Court for yesterday's hearing. The fight followed. The women cross-charged each other with peace disturbance. Police Judge Frank E. Mathews fined Mrs. Brewer $25 and costs, then put her on probation. He dismissed the charge against Mrs. Duvall.

TWO BROKERS SUSPENDED FOR LACK OF DILIGENCE

Stock Exchange Removes Stephen Paine for Three Years and Partner, Frank R. Hope, for Six Months.

NEW YORK, April 1 (AP).—The New York Stock Exchange announced last night the suspension of Stephen Paine for three years and Frank R. Hope for six months. Both men are partners of the big stock exchange firm of Paine, Webber & Co., which has offices in 19 cities.

The suspensions were based on charges that two men did not exercise diligence in certain transactions involving the control of investment trusts.

No allegations involving dishonesty were made against either individual or the firm.

The charges were an outgrowth or complaints made a year ago concerning "certain advances or loans by the firm of Paine, Webber & Co. for the account of certain individuals which were for the purchase of control" of several investment trusts.

Charge Against Payne.

The exchange charge against Paine was "that he had been guilty of conduct or proceedings inconsistent with just and equitable principles of trade . . . in that he should have prevented certain advances or loans . . . used for the purchase of control of Continental Securities Corp., Insuranshares Corp. or Delaware and Burco, Inc., investment trusts, securities from the portfolios of which investment trusts were used as collateral to secure such advances or loans and later sold in order to liquidate such advances or loans."

A second specification was that Paine was "aware of circumstances which in the exercise of ordinary diligence demanded an investigation, and failed to make a proper investigation."

The charge against Hope was that he knew facts "in the light of which he should not have permitted or should have prevented a loan . . . for the purchase of control of Burco, Inc."

Both were found by the Board of Governors guilty as charged.

Indictments for Mail Fraud.

Meanwhile, five individuals and a Canadian holding company they created—Northern Fiscal Corporation, Ltd.—were indicted for mail fraud and conspiracy in a scheme by which the Government alleges $1,425,000 was abstracted from three investment trusts they acquired.

This figure was given by Hugh A. Fulton and Morris E. Spector, assistants to United States Attorney John T. Cahill.

Those billed were Ralph H. Robb, Thomas W. Morris and Leo Solomont, all Boston lawyers; William A. Gutekunst, former manager of Bond and Share Trading Corporation, and Howard F. Hansell Jr., who operated in Canada.

Robb, Morris and Solomont specifically were accused of having obtained from Paine, Webber & Co. $650,000 in loans to enable them to acquire Insuranshares Corporation of Delaware and Burco, Inc., and of repaying the money through the sale of securities taken from the portfolios of those trusts. The third trust they acquired was Bond and Share Trading Corporation.

Solomont and Morris pleaded not guilty on arraignment and were continued in $1000 bail posted in connection with an earlier similar indictment. Their co-defendants, Spector said, will be arraigned next week.

Whitwell, 2125 Louise avenue, Pine Lawn, the driver; Fred Schleicher, 5871 Theodosia avenue; Miss Dorothy Steuart, 4444 Lindell boulevard, and Miss Gladys Whitt, 5870 Theodosia avenue.

Houston, former wholesale grocer and insurance broker, who died in 1928. Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Leonard Matthews Jr. and Mrs. Mary H. Witherspoon.

CANDIDATE MASON PROMISES EFFORT FOR TAX RELIEF

Aldermanic Head Says Democrats, If Elected, Will Make 'Every Reasonable' Endeavor.

A promise that Democrats, if elected to the Board of Aldermen Tuesday, would make "every reasonable effort" to grant relief from "ever increasing taxes" was made by William L. Mason, Democratic nominee for a second term as aldermanic president, addressing a Twenty-first Ward meeting at the Fairgrounds Hotel last night.

Commenting on the plank in the Republican platform calling for election of Aldermen by wards instead of city-wide vote, Mason credited the Democrats with passage of an enabling amendment to the State Constitution in 1934, as "the only step ever taken toward election of Aldermen by wards," and added: "If we become satisfied that the people really want such a change we will submit such a charter amendment for their vote."

However, he said his party was not yet satisfied that sound government required the change. The people were dissatisfied with election of members of the old House of Delegates by wards, he asserted. He chided the Republicans for not having provided for ward elections when they were in power, from the time of adoption of the present provision in 1914 to 1933, if they believed in it.

There has been no criticism by any responsible person of the work of the Democratic Board of Aldermen nor any reasonable contention of failure to pass needed legislation, Mason said. He denied that appropriations had been wasteful and said every one had been approved unanimously by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, composed of himself, Mayor Dickmann and one Republican, Comptroller Nolte. In the effort to economize, he said, there has been a degree of co-operation in the Board of Estimate which never existed before.

Mason defended the effort made by the city administration to settle the gas rate case so that the city could collect a tax on the company's gross revenue, although most of a gas rate reduction would be surrendered. Discussion of the Public Employes' Welfare Association by the Republicans was foreign to issues of the campaign, Mason continued, as neither he nor any Alderman is a member. He spoke of the smoke abatement ordinance and reduction of city expenditures as Democratic achievements.

Edward G. Platt, stock broker, who said he was nominally classed as a Republican, urged election of the Democratic aldermanic candidates, especially Mason, in a radio address light night. The issue raised by Clifford Greve, Mason's Republican opponent, that he should be elected, in order to give Comptroller Nolte support in the Board of Estimate, was held by Platt to be pointless.

Nolte received much less co-operation when Republicans were in power than under the Democratic administration, in which budgets have been reduced, Platt asserted. In the last five years of Republican control the city had an average of about $3,000,000 a year more to spend for the city than the Democrats have had since, the speaker continued, calling attention to the demands in recent years for public relief, maintenance of additional buildings and other factors.

In proof of the city's sound financial condition, he cited a recent sale of $1,300,000 worth of municipal bonds at the "unheard of low interest rate" of 1.82 per cent. He said the kind of administration the city now had appealed to his business sense.

LABOR BOARD CITES HAT FIRM FOR FIRING 50 EMPLOYES

Schieber Millinery Co. Moved to De Soto and Changed Name, Complaint Says.

A complaint charging that the Schieber Millinery Co., the Allen Hat Co. and Isaac Schieber violated the Wagner Act by discharging about 50 union workers in 1937 was filed today by the National Labor Relations Board.

The complaint alleges that the Schieber concern discharged members of the United Hatters, Cap and Millinery Workers' Union in violation of a union agreement with a millinery association, of which the firm was a member. The firm later moved its plant to De Soto, Mo., the complaint states, and after some time became the Allen Hat Co.

Continuing, the complaint alleges that the transfer was a "straw" deal, with Isaac Schieber remaining the real owner of the firm. Other allegations are that the firm discouraged union membership and threatened to move its plant unless organizational efforts ceased. A hearing is set for April 6, in the Federal Building.

AD FIRM'S SUIT AGAINST GENERAL MILLS SETTLED

St. Louisans' $100,000 Action Involving Publicity Idea Is Dismissed on Stipulation.

Suit of Louis E. Westheimer & Co., St. Louis advertising firm, against General Mills, Inc., of Minneapolis for $25,000 for services and $75,000 has been dismissed on a stipulation filed in the court of United States District Judge John Caskie Collet.

Counsel declined today to discuss the settlement. Under terms of the dismissal, the plaintiff is barred from reinstating the suit. The advertising company alleged it disclosed an original advertising idea which General Mills agreed to consider in April, 1937, and then used without permission. The defendant contended the idea was not exclusive.

LAWYERS IN CLASH AT TRIAL OF TORRIO

NEW YORK, April 1 (AP). — A clash between opposing counsel marked the income tax trial of John Torrio, former Chicago underworld leader, in Federal Court today.

Max D. Steuer, chief defense counsel, was cross-examining Bert Erickson, former liquor runner and a Government witness, seeking to show a discrepancy in Erickson's story linking Torrio to a bootleg liquor syndicate, when Assistant United States Attorney Seymour Klein broke in.

"The witness," he remarked, "said he has given his best recollection. Just as Mr. Steuer said when he was on the stand in the Hines case, a witness can give only his best recollection." Steuer appeared as a witness at the recent trial of James J. Hines, Tammany leader.

Steuer protested indignantly to Judge John W. Clancy at Klein's comment but Judge Clancy declined to offer any criticism, and Steuer took an exception.

Erickson was followed to the stand by Yasha Katzenberg, who is serving a 10-year prison sentence on a narcotics conviction.

He described the organization of a group of bootlegging associations under the name of "The Big Seven" and named Charles (Lucky) Luciano and Joe Adonis as among the principals.

He said Torrio went to one of the hotel headquarters in 1933 with Frank Zagarino, a member of the ring, to see "the stock list."

COOK COOS

By Ted Cook

WASHINGTON—Disturbed and perplexed by stories of Hitler's non-existence, Congressman Frisby has wired Der Fuehrer, urging him to make a world tour of personal appearances.

"I've just read a book," says Congressman Frisby, "which declares that Hitler isn't Hitler, because Hitler was liquidated quite some time ago. Now is as good a time as any for Herr Hitler to put a stop to all such nonsense.

"In fact, I have just sent a wire to Hitler, offering to sponsor him on a personal appearance tour in the United States. I told him that I would be willing to book him at Chautauquas and introduce him to cafe society for the customary agent's fee.

"The whole thing could be dramatized, like the March of Time.

"First, wild-eyed, I would rush before the audience and announce that Hitler has been liquidated. Then there would be the sound effect—hoofbeats.

At this moment Adolf would appear, hot and dusty, and stand panting, while six large hausfraus did a Maypole dance around us.

"Herr Hitler would then bow, smile and do a few convincing tricks, such as imitating a rabbit for the kiddies. Next would come the serious business of positive identification.

"Six copies of 'Mein Kampf' could be stacked on the stage and a little boy invited up from the audience to sit on the pile only to to be quickly put aside by Der Fuehrer, who would then enthusiastically kiss the top book and read the other five simultaneously to the audience.

"Mirrors might be placed advantageously about the stage so that at intervals Adolf could turn and shout 'Heil Hitler!' at one of his reflections. Thus he would prove that he treated himself the same way he expects to be treated by others. The more mirrors, the more salutes.

Maud Muller, on an April day,
This tropic garb revealed a wealth of supple beauty, rustic health,
And the local Elks, with hearts of gold,
Booked Maud for smokers, we are told,
And so she danced with vigor, charm

A coaxial cable, whatever that is, has been laid between Philadelphia and New York which will carry 480 simultaneous telephone conversations.

We predict an even dizzier time for the American farmers than they had under the AAA if their phones are connected with this cable.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT

By Ripley

In recognition of many favors received, King Louis XIV of France bestowed upon the rich merchant Antoine de Crozat, as a personal gift, the entire territory of Louisiana "to do with as he willed." It was one of the princeliest gifts ever bestowed upon a mortal, as the territory included a vast region out of which 12 American States were subsequently carved. But Crozat could not make it pay. The expense of running this gigantic estate made such inroads upon his private fortune that he was glad to give it back to the French King five years later (1717.)

HOROSCOPE

By Wynn

For Sunday, April 2.

THE week ahead is better than those we have been having recently; but only for those who can stand a few tests, for tests with superiors are now on our docket. Today: serious thought and planning will bring rewards eventually; think.

Make a Test.

Do you want to test your ideals? If so, here is a simple way to do it. Answer the question: "To what extent do I want to give protection, and to what extent do I want to receive it?" Your ideals are as high as the grade of protection you are willing to give. A person is conscious of idealism chiefly in the sense of protectiveness. The more people and things you would protect, the higher your ideals.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead, if this is date you celebrate, gradually lessens personal pressure—June through August. January through March push plans for expansion, branch out wisely, travel. Danger: now to April 16, and Dec. 4 to Jan. 26, 1940.

For Monday, April 3.

Do yourself the favor of taking a second look today; the first glance and the first opinion are likely to leave something to be desired—so don't act or decide in a hurry. And keep away from subjects and people that bring conflicts.

To Be Happy, Grow.

All men and women are happiest when they are growing—becoming better aware mentally and emotionally of their surroundings and of what they themselves are. Astrologically, no horoscope reveals one's stage of development—it shows the ways in which development can be best attained. To grow, grow with others by exchanging ideas—good reading is one way; social and economic study are others.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead, from this birthday to next, is still one of personal reaping, plus growing ambition—but don't force, more opportunity from June on. Avoid friction with superiors. Danger: now to April 18, and Dec. 6 to Jan. 27, 1940.

Tuesday.

Discusses Physical Changes and Contains Good Psychology, Doctor Says.

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

I AM frequently asked to recommend a book for young people which instructs them about the changed world that they find after they come from the protected period of childhood. I can recommend one published by Whittlesey House, called A Girl Grows Up, by Ruth Fedder, M. A.

Besides frank and sensible advice about the physical changes that occur in girls at the age of adolescence, it contains a great deal of good psychology.

What is meant by growing up? It means emotional maturity. The mature person generally has a sense of security, of knowing what is expected of her, and what she can do. She has learned how to get along happily with people. She may employ many techniques to do so. She is willing to take responsibility. She may be praised or criticised for what she has done, but she takes the responsibility just the same.

No high-school girl could be expected to meet successfully all of these standards. That is true largely because the statements listed above are for the adult who has truly grown up in the most desirable sense of that term. Very few complete adults can meet those requirements, but if the high-school girl, in gaining self-confidence will consider sensibly how she may attain security, how she may attain the technique of getting along happily with people, and how she may deserve to take responsibility, she will go a long ways in growing up.

Gaining self-confidence is a problem with many girls at the adolescent period and is often a very difficult problem for parents and teachers to meet.

A handicap is often more of an advantage than a disadvantage. Clara Barton spent several years of her childhood in a sick room nursing a crippled brother younger than herself. She came out of that experience shy, retiring and afraid of people. Since she realized that this might handicap her in later life, she deliberately worked to overcome the difficulty and succeeded so well that she founded the American Red Cross and traveled all over the world, working always with people.

When Katherine Cornell was a child, she spent several years in bed with her back strapped to a board, but she did not accept defeat. She is now acknowledged one of the finest actresses on the Americann stage.

Excellent chapters called "Getting On With People," which incidentally quotes an epigram of my friend, Karl Menninger, "The unhappy are always wrong"; a chapter on "Living Happily With Your Family," and "Associating Happily With Boys" and "Deciding About a Job" make up the bulk of this valuable book.

Editor's Note: Seven pamphlets by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a 3-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

Afternoon Tea

Use the colored and decorated lumps of sugar when serving afternoon tea; they add much to the appearance of the tea tray. One may select decorations corresponding to the tea service or the plain lumps which are flavored so nicely and yet colorful.

Books for Small Children

When buying picture books for small children, buy books that are durable and strong, as they will have pretty hard wear. Linen books are practical as they can be laundered if very soiled and will stand any amount of rough usage.

He Dared to Be Himself

By Elsie Robinson

Should he be a rubber stamp? Follow the pattern parents and playmates had laid down, or have the spunk to be his actual self?

Horace Hendricks of Stillwater, Ok., wondered. He was only 18, but an 18-year-old wonder can plague as painfully as any worry in the length of all one's life. As you should know, for you've been 18, too! And, whether you are 8 or 80 now, the chances are you're pondering on "whether it is better to be me—or chuck my copyright and be a rubber stamp?"

A joke? Don't be too sure! Many a promising career and budding character have been wrecked for keeps by that particular "joke." A fact which H. H. was probably remembering when he wrote the following letter:

"Dear Miss Robinson:

"Here's a confession that I bet will hit most of us where we live. . . . I was only a high school freshman when it started. You know how everyone lectures a kid of that age. Giving you all the corny, conventional old advice. Saying you must do this or learn that. Everyone taking a crack at you. With the kids dishing it out as bad as the oldsters. Well, I did what I suppose every person does, sooner or later—I tried to please everyone. Studied my head off because prospective employers were supposed to be nuts on math. Darned near strangled myself smoking, because it was considered 'manly.' Went out hunting for the same reason, though I loathed it, and the thought of bullets ripping through those helpless little bodies made me sick. Nevertheless, I did what everyone considered 'the correct thing.' And what did I have to show for it when I graduated?

"I was a wishy-washy, uninteresting kid with neither character nor personality . . . no ideas of my own . . . only a vague desire to be a journalist. Dad said I must study engineering. So I studied engineering . . . worried through a year of it . . . lost 15 pounds . . . began making faces at myself.

"Then I rebelled! Why be an engineer when I loathed it? Was I a man or a mouse? Why not, for once, make some decisions for myself? Wasn't I free, white and going on 21? I was! All right—then watch my smoke! Today, I'm making a record and, better still, I'm living my own life. I no longer try to please anyone else unless there's a constructive reason for so doing. Once I feared to lose friends by being too independent. Now I actually have more friends than ever before. People evidently admire fellows who dare to be themselves!"

There's a world of wisdom in that last paragraph. The world does applaud those who dare to be themselves. Above all other qualities, we jungle-bound mortals most admire courage. Most of us go through life aquake with fear. Conventionality is a symptom of that fear—that dread of the unknown. We follow beaten paths and advise others to follow them, because beaten paths seem safe. Yet, secretly, we despise ourselves for seeking safety. And worship those who have the spunk to face the wilderness.

Yet, even as we worship, we may also persecute because their bravery endangers and belittles our cowardice! We crucified Jesus . . . burned young Joan of Arc . . . fed hemlock to disdainful Socrates and whispered filth of Father Damien. They showed us up, those heroes—we had to cast them out. Yet even though tortured, lonely, they knew a pride and comfort which yes-men can never feel!

Henry Fonda is Worried About Lincoln Role

By Harold Heffernan

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., April 1. It couldn't have been more than a couple of months ago that every major studio in Hollywood was boasting possession of a good Lincoln script as well as an expert Lincoln type to portray it.

But that was two months ago. The epidemic sputtered away until today it has narrowed down to a solitary effort—the goings-on which come under the heading of "Young Mr. Lincoln" at the Twentieth Century-Fox.

It's the first day of shooting over there and everyone is touchy. On the sidelines, awaiting his first call into action, is a tall, rangy young man with a heavy, unruly shock of hair. He bears an amazing resemblance to Lincoln — almost breath-taking. Until he speaks you probably won't detect the presence of Henry Fonda. If appearances count for anything, Fonda's Lincoln should be a success.

The star stands on the sideline staring moodily toward the dingy little office setting, which represents Lincoln's first quarters after opening his practice in Springfield. There, in a moment or two, Fonda's first Lincoln lines will be recorded.

"I don't know whether I like the job or not," he confessed. "To-day I'm worried — downright scared. I've studied hard on Lincoln for several weeks, read everything I could get my hands on, but the sort of character work is tough. Trying to get 'the feel' of a man like Lincoln is enough to give an actor the creeps."

Abashed, Fonda plunged his hand into his trousers pocket and came up with one of those tiny lyre-shaped mouth instruments so popular in the rural districts.

"Part of the atmosphere," he explained. "You see, Lincoln played the Jew's-harp in his leisure moments, and so Fonda plays it, too.

Three days before that Fonda had never seen a Jew's-harp. A member of the musical staff at the studio took him in hand and turned him out, almost a master, in less than 72 hours.

"And to think that only three days ago they laughed when I said up to play!" the actor quipped.

Fonda's smile fled. Lights were burning brightly on the set. The cameraman boarded his dolly and Director Ford, now grimmer than ever, turned and beckoned his star toward the rocking chair in the center of the office set.

"Come on, Lincoln," said Ford, "time to do your stuff."

Henry Fonda is Worried About Lincoln Role

By Harold Heffernan

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., April 1. IT couldn't have been more than a couple of months ago that every major studio in Hollywood was boasting possession of a good Lincoln script as well as an expert Lincoln type to portray it.

But that was two months ago. The epidemic sputtered away until today it has narrowed down to a solitary effort—the goings-on which come under the heading of "Young Mr. Lincoln" at the Twentieth Century-Fox.

It's the first day of shooting over there and everyone is touchy. On the sidelines, awaiting his first call into action, is a tall, rangy young man with a heavy, unruly shock of hair. He bears an amazing resemblance to Lincoln — almost breath-taking. Until he speaks you probably won't detect the presence of Henry Fonda. If appearances count for anything, Fonda as Lincoln should be a success.

The star stands on the sideline staring moodily toward the dingy little office setting, which represents Lincoln's first quarters after opening his practice in Springfield. There, in a moment or two, Fonda's first Lincoln lines will be recorded.

"I don't know whether I like the job or not," he confessed. "You see, I'm worried — downright scared. I've studied hard on Lincoln for several weeks, read everything I could get my hands on, but the sort of character work is tough. Trying to get 'the feel' of a man like Lincoln is enough to give an actor the creeps."

"Listen, Hank," he called, "don't waste your time worrying and talking. If you've got any spare moments, get to work on the Jew's-harp."

Abashed, Fonda plunged his hand into his trousers pocket and came up with one of those tiny lyre-shaped mouth instruments once so popular in the rural districts.

"Part of the atmosphere," he explained. "You see, Lincoln played the Jew's-harp in his leisure moments, and so Fonda plays it, too.

Three days before that Fonda had never seen a Jew's-harp. A member of the musical staff at the studio took him in hand and turned him out, almost a master, in less than 72 hours.

"And to think that only three days ago they laughed when I got up to play!" the actor quipped.

Fonda's smile fled. Lights were burning brightly on the set. The cameraman boarded his dolly and Director Ford, now grimmer than ever, turned and beckoned his star toward the rocking chair in the center of the office set.

"Come on, Lincoln," said Ford, "time to do your stuff."

IF YOU ASK My OPINION

By MARTHA CARR

Dear Martha Carr:

WE have a grandson who has the leading part in a high school operetta, which is being given in advance of graduation. We would like to know if it would be good taste to send flowers on the evening of the entertainment. BOB.

Letters intended for this column must be addressed to Martha Carr at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Mrs. Carr will answer all questions of general interest but, of course, cannot give advice on matters of a purely legal or medical nature. Those who do not care to have their letters published may enclose an addressed and stamped envelope for personal reply.

There must be some regular custom about this in the school your son attends and, especially in the case of a son. You should make inquiry about the conventions of this kind in your town. Certainly, your son might not want to make himself too conspicuous by having these flowers handed over the footlights and it may be possible for him to receive them back stage; but find out carefully, from the faculty or older graduates just what is customary. You could show him an attention which would be quite as marked, by inviting the cast to your home after the play and serving refreshments and having a little music or some fun of a different kind.

I AM A BOY 15 years of age and would like to drive a car. I have learned to drive well. Do you know if I could get a driver's license, although not of age? A READER.

I WILL GREATLY appreciate it if you will announce that we are having a "towel shower" for the newsboys at Father Dunne's Newsboys' Home on Good Friday. Dear Mrs. Carr:

I AM HAVING a light blue suit for Easter and would like to know what kind of accessories to wear with it. Would it be all right to wear a white blouse with it, and navy blue and white spectators, a white beaded purse, white gloves and a light blue hat; or would it be better to wear navy blue shoes, and a light blue hat, purse and gloves? Or could you suggest something different? PUZZLED.

Your white blouse would be very pretty with the light blue hat and suit, white gloves, navy blue shoes and navy blue purse. Easter is early this year, and with the light blue suit, white shoes and purse, while pretty, might not seem so appropriate.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

WE HAVE SECURED, through your column, some very fine members for our club, so hope you will notify your readers that we are having a membership roundup and invite any stenographer or secretary to join us. Will you please tell me when the audition starts for the chorus for spring opera at the Municipal Auditorium? I am told I have a lovely voice. And, as I don't care for jazzy, swing songs, I should like to get into the opera atmosphere. I am 21 years old; am I too young to start? Thank you very much. SONG BIRD.

No date has been set as yet for these auditions. You will see the time announced in the daily papers before this takes place.

Girl's Expenses Traveling to a Week-End Party

She Should Pay Own Way There and Back or Decline Invitation.

By Emily Post

Dear Mrs. Post:

THERE is a slight difference of opinion in this fraternity as to the expenses we should expect the girls who come as our guests to week end parties and dances, to assume. Some of the men argue that rules are changing and that they are now so relaxed that it is not considered improper for a man to pay his date's traveling expenses, and that the girls will expect it. I'm one of the old-fashioned "diehards" who feel that most nice girls would be offended at having the price of a ticket offered to them.

Answer: I agree with your "brothers" that behavior in general has relaxed to a point where instinctive perception of cheapness has already become weakened. In fact, I think if proper pride is not soon given a little more backbone, the self-respect of the oncoming generation will have the spinelessness of jellyfish. I willingly agree, of course, that many factors—principally those of depleted incomes—have contributed to the necessity for relaxing some of the rules of yesterday.

In fact, there is scarcely a rule so hard-set that no adjustment can be made when common sense justifies it. As you have said, when a girl is invited to a fraternity party she should pay her own traveling expenses just as she should were she invited to spend the week end at the house of any of her friends. If she can't pay her way she should decline the invitations and stay at home. But just as when a girl going to stay with another girl, is sometimes sent a railroad (or boat) ticket by her hostess, it is in certain especial cases proper that she accept a ticket from her host. For example, John Welloff, naturally wants Mary Poor who is his really "best" girl, to come to the party. If in addition to being his best girl, he has known her most of his life, her mother might be willing to decide that John could be allowed to send a round trip ticket. But in the case of a girl who is just an ordinary friend—still more, a fairly new one, she would be putting herself in a cheapened position if she accepted.

TITAN TOWER -:- By James G. Chesnutt

CHAPTER TWENTY-FIVE.

MICKEY, too, had his own surprise when Linda returned home. Throwing off her hat and coat, she swooped him up from the floor and held him tight in her arms as she sat down on the couch.

"Oh, Mickey, honey," she said. "Let's not worry any more about anything. We'll be all right—you and mother—I just know we will."

When Mr. Avon left Linda, he left his role behind. He was J. R. Blaine of Titan Tower when he strode into the new office of Dr. Leonard Renquist.

After a few preliminary words, Renquist, like Linda, found in Pop Blaine someone in whom to confide. He told him, without reservation, the story of his experiences as eraser for the professional mistakes of Dr. Bill Blaine, of his determination to get out from under an unbearable situation, of Blaine's bungling of the operation on Steve Hubbard.

And, finally, Dr. Renquist told Pop Blaine that he had learned why Al Lawson was so desirous of setting up young Dr. Renquist in business for himself.

It was to make a cat's paw of Rennie, a political club to hold over Pop Blaine himself, using Rennie's knowledge of Bill Blaine's mistakes as a threat to swing Bill Blaine's father to Al Lawson's will—politically and financially. Kid glove blackmail, devious and intricate, but—in plain words—a "shakedown."

And Rennie Renquist would have none of it.

"I'm glad you came," he said. "If you hadn't, I would have gone to you! I'm through with the whole rotten mess; with Lawson, with Titan Tower, with everything. I'm going somewhere where a man can live his own life—and keep his self-respect!"

"I don't think," Blaine said cryptically, "that you'll have to go far. But you're going far, son, mark my words."

When Linda drove Mr. Avon's car to a stop in front of the massive residence in Pacific avenue, she looked twice at the paper bearing the address which he had given her. The address was right. But the house didn't look like his home—or anyone's. It looked like the new Federal building.

Awed by its imposing marble front and its tremendous bulk, Linda stood there at the front door, timorously waiting the answer to her ring. This couldn't be Mr. Avon's place, she reasoned, there must be some mistake.

When the door opened and Mr. Avon himself stood there, she felt that everything was all right again.

"Come right in, my dear," he said pleasantly. "I'm glad you came. We're all ready for you—and the surprise."

But even though Linda felt everything was all right now that Mr. Avon was here, she thought that the butler in such an awesome, impressive mansion as this should be attired in something a little more formal than the old gray suit which Mr. Avon was wearing, the same gray suit which had seemed a part of him ever since the incident of the roof.

"I'll have to apologize," he said. "Mother wanted me to put on that blamed monkey suit, but I thought you wouln't recognize your old friend in it."

* * *

AT that moment a person, who looked like the butler of such an establishment should look, appeared at Mr. Avon's side.

Awed, Linda followed, down the lovely, classic hallway, with Mr. Avon at her arm, while the butler opened the door into a drawing room such as Linda had never dreamed existed outside the movies.

And as she stepped through the door, to be confronted with a circle of surprised and surprising faces, Mr. Avon said:

"Linda, dear, this is my family. This is my surprise. You're among friends. I'm sure you know my son Bill and my daughter Merry."

It would have been difficult to choose between Linda and Bill Blaine for the first prize in an open, free-style, surprise-expression contest.

"Oh," gulped Linda, looking bewilderedly at Mr. Blaine, as a drowning man scans the sea for a spar, "You . . . you're not Mr. Avon . . . I mean . . . you're Mr. Blaine!"

Friend! After dinner, while they were in the library, after Mrs. Blaine had excused herself and withdrawn, Linda was to learn just which of this happy family circle were her friends.

"My dear," Mrs. Blaine had said, taking both of Linda's trembling hands into her own, "you're lovely! Much nicer even than John told me you were."

Strange, Linda thought at the time, having seen the society page pictures of Mrs. Beryl Meredith Blaine, all aloof and aristocratic, you'd never dream she could be as sweet and warmly friendly as this kind, distinguished woman. And she was Bill's mother.

Linda was excited and tense—but not too excited nor too tense to notice that it was John—Mr. Avon—who had spoken to Bill's mother about Linda. Not Bill. If Bill Blaine had told his mother of the girl he loved, Mrs. Blaine failed to mention that fact.

Funny, that one. Jack Blaine hadn't acted any too glad to meet Linda. It wasn't that he was being high-hat. He had acted sort of flustered and ashamed. Linda couldn't understand him at all.

"I'm sure you know my son Bill and my daughter Merry," Mrs. Avon-Blaine had said. Well, he could be sure she knew Merry, because he had introduced them before—under somewhat strained circimstances in the lunchroom, ages ago. As for Bill—

Well, did she really know him? Linda wondered. How close she was to being answered, Linda didn't know.

All she knew, for sure, was that she had never in her life felt like quite such a total fool as she did the moment she confronted the Blaines in a family group.

Was Bill Blaine a party to his father's deception, as Mr. Avon was a party to Linda's deception of Bill? No. Linda, decided, noticing that Bill was, if anything, more surprised than Linda at their meeting in his own home.

* * *

THROUGH dinner they had just chatted; pleasantries, small talk, about Linda's vacation at the Blaine estate at Lake Tahoe. But after dinner they got down to cases.

Mr. Blaine Sr. opened the subject, as they gathered close together in the library over their after-dinner liquors.

"About the fight we have on our hands—shall I tell them, Linda, or will you?" Mr. Blaine began.

"Fight?" Merry chimed in. "I love a good scrap! Lead me to it."

"What fight is that, Dad?" Bill wanted to know.

Only Jack Blaine, of the entire group, was silent.

At Linda's nod, Mr. Blaine went on:

"Just this: The Mortons, the grandparents of Linda's son, are trying to take her boy away from her. They've filed a guardianship petition, charging Linda is unfit to keep him."

"Unfit!" It was Merry. "Linda, how awful!"

"Why, you poor kid!" Merry said warmly, "Unfit! We'll show them who's unfit!"

"Atta girl, Merry!" her father cheered. "I know we could count on you."

"Yes," Mr. Blaine interrupted. "So long as it's all in the family, we've got the best attorney right here, and we won't have to buy."

Jack Blaine leaned forward in his chair, at the outside of the group.

"You mean me, dad," he said, "and you've put me on the spot. There's nothing I'd rather do than help Linda. Matter of fact, I've been asked to help her fight this case by someone . . . well, by someone else. But you'll have to count me out."

There was a pause. When someone finally spoke, it was Mr. Blaine, and he was frowning.

"Why, son?" he said.

"Because the Bradley Mortons are Lawson's clients—and I'm on the other side."

"Lawson!" Pop Blaine fairly snorted the word. "You're not his office boy any longer. You're your own boss, son, in your own office—as of tomorrow morning."

"Sorry, dad," Jack sounded as though he meant it. "I'm in this case now and I'm going to stick with it."

"Then, by Harry, we'll fight you, too," Blaine Sr., was thoroughly aroused now. "If we have to, we'll fight you, son, and give you a licking!"

It was Bill. Linda had wondered when Bill was going to speak his piece. Linda had wondered why Bill—the Bill she loved—wasn't the first to leap to her side, instead of Merry.

"Look," Bill said, spreading his hands in front of his knees in a gesture that said: "This solves everything."

"Look," he said, "you Hotspurs—Merry and Dad and Jack—seem to want a fight. It can be all worked out smoothly without any ruckus, inside the family or out."

No Trump Often Safer Than Suit In Bidding Slam

By Ely Culbertson

ON many occasions I have pointed out that slams in no trump often are safer than at a suit denomination. Naturally this applies only when all four suits are securely stopped and, in addition, when there is a very long and solid suit available to produce the bulk of the tricks. The following letter backs up this theory with a vengeance:

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: This interesting hand showed up last night in our team-of-four contest and almost broke up the party:

"North, dealer.

	♠ 7 4 ♥ A K J 4 3 ♦ K 10 7 4 ♣ A 3
♠ 10 3 2 ♥ 6 5 2 ♦ None ♣ K Q 10 9 8 7 6	NORTH WEST EAST SOUTH	♠ 9 5 ♥ Q 10 9 8 7 ♦ Q J 9 6 3 2 ♣ None
	♠ A K Q J 8 6 ♥ None ♦ A 8 5 ♣ J 5 4 2

"At one table South landed at six spade. West opened the club king, and, when North covered, East ruffed. South now started to pray for a heart return, but East (not unnaturally) picked a diamond. West ruffed in a gleeful and highly ungentlemanly fashion and returned the club queen, followed by the club six. East overruffed dummy's seven spot and returned another diamond. When North regained consciousness he chalked up a four trick set.

"At the other table South arrived at a six no trump contract. As before, the club king was opened, but this time the ace won. Six spades were run off. Now South had to stop and think. He recalled that East had discarded three diamonds and two hearts on the four leads which he had been unable to follow, and the mystery was solved. With only three diamonds still outstanding declarer led the ace and king and a third round. East won and had to return a heart from his Q 10 9 up to dummy's A K J. Six no trump, bid and made, vs. six spades down four. Some swing!

"H. D. H., Boston."

While reiterating the remark that a six no trump contract often is safer than a suit contract, I must confess that I am baffled when I attempt to reconstruct the bidding that landed South at six no trump. It would seem that, after South bids the spades strongly, it is only North who can mention no trump, since it is he who has the quick club stopper. Of course, I can visualize some such bidding as this:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	Pass	2 spades	3 clubs
3 hearts	Pass	4 no trump	Pass
5 no trump	Pass	6 no trump	Pass
Pass	Pass

By using the 4-5 no trump convention as a slam try South can make himself declarer. But this does not explain how he dare risk a six no trump contract when he does not hold a single heart in his hand for communication and solidifying purposes. I must confess that in this particular case I would have met the fate meted out to the unfortunate gentleman at table No. 1!

Write your bridge troubles and problems to Ely Culbertson, care of this paper, inclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelop.

Anchovy Appetizers

One-quarter cup anchovy paste, two hard-boiled eggs, two cakes cream cheese, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half cup mayonnaise dressing, a dash of Worcestershire sauce, a dash of cayenne. Cut thinly sliced rye or whole wheat bread into finger-shaped pieces and spread with above mixture well blended together. Garnish with thin strips of pimento and serve.

A Vast Help

When you are planning to bake during the morning leave the butter from breakfast stand out in the kitchen until you are ready to do your baking. By then it will be softened and make the job of creaming it a very simple one.

HOMES PICKETED TO FORCE WORKERS INTO CIO UNION

CHILDREN TRAIL LABOR MARCHERS

Victim Says He Has Right to Join or Not, As He Sees Fit, and Objects to Compulsion.

The personal touch in picketing, a new development in unionism, was resumed yesterday as five members of the CIO United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers, Local 1108, paced sidewalks before homes of three non-union employes of the Century Electric Co., carrying signs denouncing them as "a hindrance to improvement of working and living conditions in St. Louis."

At the same time, members of Local 1104 paid similar visits to homes of certain non-union workers at the Wagner Electric Co.

The afternoon of a picket is not without its drawbacks, it was observed by a Post-Dispatch reporter who accompanied Henry Fiering, secretary, and his crew of pickets. Shortly after 1 o'clock, two of the pickets were arrested at the home of Clayton Brown, 705 Rutger street, by detectives who took them to headquarters.

The Afternoon of a Picket.

Fiering and his men started the day's activities at noon by visiting Ward W. Meyer, 3623 Virginia avenue. They alighted from Fiering's car, got out yellow and white signs and circulars and turned them over to Robert Hickey, 6321 Bancroft avenue, and Roy Stanley, 1741 St. Louis avenue, East St. Louis, who were slated for the first shift.

"Let's get going briskly now, men," said Fiering. "No dawdling." He explained that police had arrested pickets twice before. "Meyer doesn't much care for picketing," Fiering said. "We want him in the union, though. We're right in the middle of negotiations for a new contract and in spite of the fact we have 98 per cent of the workers organized at Century, getting the 15 or 20 others in would have a good deal of effect."

Children Follow Pickets.

Hickey and Stanley walked up and down for about 20 minutes, while Fiering drove the car around the block. The signs seemed to delight several children on tricycles, who wheeled along beside the pickets. Neighbors who were in their front yards troweling their shrubs stopped work and whispered speculatively on the goings on in front of Mr. Meyer's house.

The union men next went to the Rutger street address. Brown was across the street. He expressed a desire to state his side of the story to the reporter. "They ought not to picket a man's home when he's not there," he said. "I've got a right to join a union or not, just as I see it. When I belonged to the A. F. of L. I went out on strike and what did I get? I got out of work, that's all. These fellows try to force men into the union by slander; I don't much care for that kind of tactics."

The arrival of the detectives caused excitement in the neighborhood. Women leaned out of upstairs windows and a group of children and adults gathered quickly. Detective-Sergeant Herman Rensekamp and Detectives Lyman Price and William Dunman arrested Roy Barrett, 2008 Franklin avenue, and Oliver Green, 2849A Wisconsin avenue, and confiscated their signs.

"Put in Some Good Licks."

"Well, we've got one sign left," said Fiering, after they were gone. "We'll just keep on the job for a while." The three remaining pickets set out for the home of Fred Hassenkemper, 3400 Ivanhoe avenue. There were few passersby and the pickets decided to call it a day. They had been on the job about four hours.

Miss Clara Ryder, secretary of Local 1104, reported an uneventful afternoon. The pickets visited Anthony Wotawn, 6209 Plymouth avenue, and Miss Beatrice Newell, 715 Evergreen avenue, Wagner Electric employes, without engaging the attention of police.

When Fiering and three other pickets were arrested March 11 at Meyer's home, warrants were not issued because the evidence would not support a charge of illegal assembly, Assistant Prosecuting Attorney M. L. Mushlin told the Post-Dispatch. Mushlin said the person picketed could seek an injunction to stop the practice.
